Announcement to this effect was made this morning by Capt. C. D. Neroutos, manager of the C.P.R. Coast service of the C.P.R.

The exact date of the new schedule's commencement has not yet been set, but Capt. Neroutos said that the first trip will be made early in June. August 19 to 24 was agreed upon as the date of the Willows Exhibition under the auspices of the B.C. Agricultural Association, at a meeting of fair executives at New Westminster last evening. W. H. Mearns was re-elected president of the B.C. Fairs Association, and W. J. Bonavia, also of this city, as secretary.

The Fairs' Association decided to approach the Provincial Government for increased grants to all British Columbia fairs of class B or lower rank. The Government at present contributes twenty-five per cent of the prize money and grants to fairs last year totalled $32,012, prize money amounted to $121,721, while the value of buildings was $250,000.

Other officers chosen by the Fairs Association included: First vice-president, H. M. Streight, New Westminster; second vice-president, J. T. Brown, Surrey; third vice-president, Mat Hansen, Armstrong; executive, Rev. E. Manuel, Chilliwack; Reeve F. A. Tomsett, Richmond, and Dr. J. F. Wood, Matsqui.

Secretary Bonavia reported that four exhibitions and sixty-one fairs had been held last year in British Columbia, an increase of five fairs compared with 1927.

BY-ELECTION IN BRITAIN WON BY LIBERAL PARTY

Liberals gained a victory in the Eddisbury by-election for the Commons, necessitated by the death of the Conservative member, Sir H. Barnston. The Liberal, R. J. Russell, received 10,223 votes against 8,931 for the Conservative, Lieut.-Colonel B. G. Palmer.

Mr. Russell has worked in the division for twenty-five years. It was his third attempt to win the seat and his first success. Both candidates addressed many meetings in whirlwind campaigns, the Conservative speaking at almost ninety meetings.

New Reparations Plan Outlined

Commission of Experts Suggests Germany Pay Allies $420,000,000 Yearly

Paris, March 21.—Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, will take with him to Berlin to-night, it is learned, the offer of the Allied experts on reparations to accept 1,750,000,000 marks (about $420,000,000) as the figure for the German reparations annuities.

The Allies' offer carried with it various other conditions which were not revealed.

TO CONSULT LEADERS.—Dr. Schacht has given no indication the German Government will accept the Allies' offer. He has wired Dr. Hilferding, Minister of Finance, to call a meeting in Berlin of the great provincial industrialists and heads of German institutions so he may explain the present situation of the reparations negotiations.

The German banker asked for this meeting, it was understood, so that responsibility for acceptance or conditional refusal would be shared, not only by the Government, but by the great leaders of German industry and finance.

The figure of 1,750,000,000 marks is understood to represent reparations of all categories. This would entail a reduction of the present annuities under the Dawes plan of between 700,000,000 and 800,000,000 gold marks.

Winnipeg, March 21.—Cost of laying down a bushel of prairie wheat in the United Kingdom averages two cents less by the British Columbia coast route than by way of Buffalo and New York.

New Plan Mooted On Air Line

Amalgamation of B.C. Airways and Washington Body Is Proposal

Shareholders Confer To-day on Project to Reopen Triangular Service

Plans to pave the way for re-opening of aerial passenger service between Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver were discussed at a meeting of the shareholders of the B.C. Airways Limited this afternoon.

An agreement by which the B.C. Airways would be amalgamated with the Washington Aeronautical Association was submitted to the shareholders for ratification. Negotiations along this line have been carried on for some time between officials of the local and U.S. companies. Ernest Eve, president, Cecil Eve, director, and Gordon Cameron, secretary of the B.C. Airways, were in Seattle last week-end in connection with the proposed deal.

The exact nature of the agreement has yet to be announced, but it is understood that the Washington Association would form a holding company with the local firm in charge of operations in British Columbia.

It is also understood that with completion of the amalgamation the way would be paved for the opening of a service replacing that which ended with the loss of the all-metal Ford monoplane last summer. Plans for the new service would call for two amphibian planes, it is said.

VANCOUVER-SEATTLE SERVICE.—Vancouver, March 21.—"Passenger service by air between Vancouver, Seattle and Portland will be inaugurated within ninety days," stated August F. Slater, general manager of Washington Air Express Inc. to-day.

Mr. Slater is in Vancouver conferring with Alderman E. W. Dean and George C. Miller over plans of his company to build a temporary hangar at the Island airport, to house three $70,000, twelve-passenger Pottier trimotors which will be used in the service.

A hangar is now being constructed at Boeing Field, Seattle, at a cost of $60,000 to care for company activities at the southern terminus, according to Mr. Slater.

Gen. Aguirre Is Executed By Mexico Troops

Mexico City, March 21, 10:30 a.m.—General Jesus M. Aguirre, chief rebel commander in the Province of Vera Cruz, was executed at La Magras, Vera Cruz Province, at 7 a.m. to-day after a court-martial. Officials at the Presidential Castle here did not state whether the body would be brought to Mexico City for burial.

Aguirre was captured yesterday after a short fight between federal and his few followers in which two generals were killed. It was announced at Chapultepec Castle.

Bisbee, Arizona, March 21.—Mexican families on the Sonora side of the international border line were pouring across the boundary early this morning, bringing their household goods with them, in anticipation of an expected battle between Mexican Government troops and rebels at Naco, Sonora, eight miles south of here this morning.

BY-ELECTION IN ONTARIO SOON

Statement Awaited From Auger, Prescott M.P., as to Whether He Will Resign

Ottawa, March 21.—Parliamentary authorities are hopeful Louis M. Auger, member for Prescott, Ont., convicted in the Assize Court here yesterday of a serious offence against a girl, will resign his seat in the House of Commons before sentence is passed by the court. If Mr. Auger does not resign, proceedings will be taken in the House to vacate his seat.

The desire of the parliamentary authorities is to have Mr. Auger resign. The vacancy will lead to a by-election in Prescott.

Efforts on the part of local newspapers to obtain a definite statement from Mr. Auger regarding his status as a member of Parliament were unavailing to-day.

"I have absolutely nothing to say to the press," he said.

Ottawa, March 21.—Louis M. Auger, youngest member of the House of Commons, who yesterday was convicted of a charge of committing a grave offence against a girl, was sentenced to six months in the House of Commons.

When court opened this morning Mr. Justice Wright announced he would defer sentence until a later date.

In finding Auger guilty, the jury recommended mercy.

Mr. Auger, who will be twenty-seven years old on April 3 next, was elected to Parliament at the last general election in 1925 as representative of Prescott County, Ontario.

Crews Attempt to Rescue Five-score Men Or Bring Bodies From Deep Coal Pit

Foch Funeral Plans Made For Next Tuesday

Premier Poincare to Be Only Speaker at National Event in Paris

Citizens Bare-headed as They Pass House in French Capital

Paris, March 21.—The French Cabinet late to-day settled finally on the arrangements for the funeral of the late Marshal Foch.

The body will be placed in the crypt of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, where a national funeral will be held next Tuesday.

After the funeral service the body will be taken to the last resting place under the dome of the Invalides, where Napoleon sleeps.

Premier Poincare, who probably will be the only speaker at the Invalides, wrote former Premier Clemenceau to-night asking the "Father of Victory" to join in Tuesday's ceremonies.

The Chamber of Deputies to-day voted the special bill providing for a national funeral. The measure was passed with spaces for figures left blank so every necessary expense might be included. It went through almost immediately and without discussion. The communists remained silent throughout.

A Government spokesman declared all arrangements would be subordinated to the wishes of Madame Foch.

THE BODY OF MARSHAL FOCH lay to-day in a simple bed in a sparsely furnished room of the Invalides Palace. A guard of honor, soldiers, who marched with the marshal to victory and in the World War, took possession of the courtyard in front of the home. Parisians passed with heads bowed and hats off, while the nation planned its sixtieth national funeral, its highest honor in death for the man who did so much for it during his life.

MANY MEDALS.—The body was dressed to-day in the marshal's field uniform of blue. On the breast the ribbons and medals of almost every order of prominence in the world were draped, among them the Star and Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. This last was brought and pinned on by General H. Gouraud shortly after the death of the Marshal to-day.

The features are calm and serene. Death erased the lines of suffering and the body seemed to-day as one asleep. The late marshal's physician and faithful friend, Dr. Maurice Aron, who has hardly left the room since the body was laid out there, General Weygand and Rev. Father Boncour were constant in their attendance also. Two catholic sisters and three general staff officers took turns last night in guarding the room.

"We had just come out of a rock cut and were rounding a curve when suddenly, about a telegraph pole's length away, I saw the other train coming at full speed," he said. "We must have both jammed on our emergency brakes at the same time, but they had just started to take hold and we were still running about forty miles an hour when we collided. There was a terrible crash and that is all I remember."

W. A. Wiggins of Vancouver was in a sleeper near the rear. His car piled up on the one in front, he said, but "being pretty well in the rear, we escaped with a shock."

LARGE AREA IN ILLINOIS FLOODED

Quincy, Ill., March 21.—Unable longer to withstand the onslaught of the torrent of water which had reached the levee crown, the Indian Grove Levee on the Mississippi River, five miles north of Quincy, gave way to-day, pouring a great flood over 30,000 acres of improved farm lands in the district.

After Explosion in Mine in Pennsylvania 170 Men Escape in Safety, But 100 or More of Their Fellow-workers Are Missing; Fire Follows Blast

Parnassus, Pa., March 21.—More than 100 miners were unaccounted for to-day, six hours after an explosion in the Kinlock mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company. One hundred and seventy men came up out of the pit in small groups while rescue crews were endeavoring to learn the fate of the entombed workers.

Two bodies were recovered by rescue men who pushed into the mine as soon after the explosion as entry was possible.

Flames razed about the Kinlock entry into the main heading, and dangerous gases and afterdamp were reported in the pit.

NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES.—Mine officials could not say definitely how many men were at work in the mine. The day shift had gone into the workings but a short time before the blast, and under normal conditions 392 men were employed. However, estimates of the number at work this morning ranged between 275 and 300 men.

LITTLE HOPE HELD.—All of the miners who escaped came out at a point five miles from the Kinlock entry, about which the explosion centred. Rescue men found it difficult to enter the workings from the Kinlock opening, and it was believed the miners at work near there had no chance to escape.

DRIVEN BACK.—Two rescue teams of six men each went down the Kinlock slope, but all but three returned. They reported conditions were bad due to gas.

According to reports, the two bodies found were those of William and Charles Oliver. They were in the slope at the Kinlock entry.

FINEST BERRY CROP IN YEARS

Saanich Strawberry Prospects Good Despite Severe Winter; Logans Good Too

The brightest crop prospects for several years are seen by the strawberry growers of Saanich for the coming season. Despite the severity of last winter, remarkably little Winter-killing is evident except in the lower levels, and the berry patches give every prospect of excellent yields.

Loganberry plantations have not come through the cold weather as well as strawberries, but the yield is expected to equal that of last year. Winter-killed vines being offset by plantings which will be bearing for the first time.

WITNESS TOURS DURING HEARING

Ex-Winnipeg Electric Co. Secretary Not Heard at Power Inquiry

Vancouver, March 21.—Miss Beatrice Coult, secretary to two presidents of the Winnipeg Electric Company and much sought after in the Manitoba power deal investigation, went to Los Angeles after she left Vancouver, according to information received by Lieut.-Col. Arthur Sullivan, counsel for Lieut.-Col. F. G. Taylor, K.C., Conservative leader in the Manitoba Legislature.

When Lieut.-Col. Sullivan arrived in Vancouver after a visit to California with the Manitoba Commission and hearing evidence of A. W. McLimont, former Winnipeg Electric Company president, he found Miss Coult had left a local hotel for an unannounced departure.

Miss Coult came to Vancouver on a holiday which started a few days before she was called as a witness by Col. Sullivan. After spending some days here, she left the city.

Von Hindenburg Silent As Foch's Memory Honored

Says Germans Would Not Understand Tribute He Might Pay Late Leader

Berlin, March 21.—Marshal Foch's death finds the German populace mostly silent, though much moved by the spirit of resentment over what is regarded as the humiliating manner with which the German armistice commission was treated at Compiegne to make it seem advisable for men in public office to comment on the distinguished Frenchman's career, though nobody questions his military genius.

President von Hindenburg declined to issue a statement on the death of his famous adversary, not because he had not the highest regard for his opponent's ability, but because he is so

It was the little girl's first visit to church, and she seemed particularly to admire the surplined choir.

When she got home her father asked, "Well, and what did you see?"

"Oh, daddy," she said, "it was beautiful; there was a lot of little boys, and they were all made out of old cigars!"

The fiery colonel, seated in a restaurant, had given his order ten minutes previously, and was still waiting to be served. Then, as the waitress passed his table, he snorted:

"I say, I ordered sausages. How long is it going to be?"

"About four inches," politely replied the waitress.

Inquest Follows Auto Collision

Vancouver, March 21.—Responsibility for the accident which caused the death of W. F. St. Quintin, fifty-four, of 4012 Fraser Avenue, Vancouver, in an automobile collision at Cardero and Barclay Streets Monday, remained unfixed after a jury presided over by Coroner W. D. Brydson-Jack had examined the facts of the case yesterday.

Stating in their verdict that "from the evidence submitted we are unable to determine the actual responsibility," the jurors did not blame W. L. Paynter, Cardero Street, for the smash, but did not completely exonerate him. Paynter is charged technically with manslaughter.

Witnesses stated Paynter was driving south and St. Quintin west when the collision occurred.

"Now children," said the school teacher, "can any of you tell me of a greater power than a king?"

"Yes, ma'am," cried a little boy, eagerly.

"Very well, you may tell the class," replied the teacher.

"An ace," was the unexpected reply.

Grain Handling Delegates To Big Conference Debate Topic Leave Britain

Minister of Trade Urges Commons to Widen Its Committee's Inquiry

Ottawa, March 21.—The marketing of Canada's 1928 wheat crop was discussed by members of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. Following reports from the prairies of dissatisfaction with the work of the Board of Grain Commissioners and the way the crop was handled, three private members' resolutions had been placed on the order paper of the House. One asked that in grading wheat, its protective content should be taken into consideration. The second referring to the mixing of grain and the third condemned the Board of Grain Commissioners for testing the so-called "hybrid" ticks. It was on a recommendation of the committee on agriculture that it be empowered to investigate all these points at one time that the discussion started in the Commons and forced the budget debate to give way.

MINISTER'S ATTITUDE

Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said that "to discuss charges against the Board of Grain Commissioners is to discuss the board, and the board has not had an opportunity to give evidence as to why it ruled or failed to rule in a certain way. I think it is unfair. So far as I am concerned, I have found the Board of Grain Commissioners at all times anxious to assist in the administration of the Grain Act in the interests of the producer. Whether it has made mistakes of judgment or not will be brought out in the evidence before the committee."

He declined to comment as a Minister on a public servant until the latter had been given the opportunity to defend himself. He accordingly urged the request of the committee that its scope be enlarged so that it should be the House. The members of the board would then come before the committee to give their side of the case.

The debate was still in progress when the House rose at 6 p.m., and the expectation was that it would be continued to-day.

ITINERARY BOARD

E. J. Garland, U.F.A., Bow River, charged that "the board, has utterly failed to function." He thought it should be an itinerant board.

RIGHT TO BE HEARD

John Millar, Liberal-Progressive, Qu'Appelle, Sask., declared he favored the Board of Grain Commissioners presenting its side of the case before the agricultural committee of the House. The board had been charged with a serious crime and it had no opportunity of defending itself. It was true, he said, that the board had blundered in connection with the hybrid ticket, but the difficulty had been caused by the actions not only of the board, but by the Wheat Pool directors themselves. If the pools had not signed the contracts with the grain trade, the trouble would not have arisen.

M. N. Campbell, Progressive, MacKenzie, Sask., said he knew having received complaints which it ought to have investigated, but had not investigated.

DEPARTMENT SUGGESTED

John Vallance, Liberal-Progressive, South Battleford, Sask., said it was the function of the board to administer the Canada Grain Act, but it was very inefficient in its administration. "I suggest," Mr. Vallance said, "that we set up a department of the Government under a responsible minister, and I think it would not only prove more efficient, but could relieve the grain trade of a great many evils."

INCIDENT OF GIFT

T. W. Bird, Progressive, Nelson, Man., stated he remembered walking into the room of a member of Parliament upstairs and there on the centre of the floor was a packing case. The member handed him a letter, saying: "What do you think of that? Shall I receive this?"

"Here," continued Mr. Bird, "was a token of gratitude from the grain commissioners to a member of Parliament for the part he had taken in raising their salaries. I said: 'If I were in your position, I would not unmail that packing case. I would send it back and tell the commissioners to express their gratitude in giving the farmers of the West a square deal.' Have they done it? If I had known then what I do now of the fidelity of the grain commissioners to the farmers of the West, I would not have let a misnomer like that pass without investigation."

A member asked what was in the case. Mr. Bird replied that it did not matter.

LIVERPOOL SATISFIED

Ottawa, March 21.—The Liverpool Corn Exchange was well satisfied with the grading and quality of the wheat crop of Canadian wheat. Before the agricultural committee of the House of Commons yesterday, L. H. Newman, secretary of the exchange, stated that the grading was a great improvement over other years. The improvement was appreciated by the merchants and millers in the higher prices paid for lower grades.

Dr. Newman had written the exchange as to what methods could be employed by his office to improve the wheat supply from this country. Replying to this exchange official, the farmers concentrated on growing hard red wheat of good protein content.

Threatening Letter Is Given As Evidence

Vancouver, March 21.—How "Kee" Thompson, who was shot by his former wife, Gladys Ing, in Chinatown here on the evening of February 5, wrote a threatening letter to her asking for $1000, which she refused to give, was brought out in evidence in police court to-day, when the preliminary hearing was held. The letter was submitted as evidence.

Court adjourned until this afternoon after Miss Ing, or Ah Gun as she sometimes calls herself, had occupied the stand for more than an hour in a lengthy description of the alleged attack, which was said to have been made with an axe, and of her varied life as a waitress since she was brought to Canada eight years ago at the age of sixteen.

Oslo Scene Of Royal Wedding

Crown Prince Olaf of Norway and Princess Martha of Sweden Married

Oslo, Norway, March 21.—Olaf, Crown Prince of Norway, and Princess Martha, niece of King Gustav of Sweden, were married here to-day in the presence of royal kindred amid the acclaim and rejoicing of the Norwegian people.

The wedding was held in the ancient Church of Our Saviour, according to the simple Lutheran ritual, which was in keeping with the severe plainness of the edifice.

The spectacle was made impressive by the distinguished company of guests and the patriotic music of the organ and special choruses.

Princess Martha was given away by her father, Prince Carl, brother of the Swedish King. Prince Olaf was attended by his British cousin, the Duke of York, second son of King George, and Queen Mary. The service solemnizing the union of the handsome, princely couple was conducted by Bishop Johan Lunde of Oslo.

JUDGMENT IS NOT ENFORCED

Ruling in Vancouver in Scollard Suit Is in Favor of Him

Vancouver, Mar. 21.—Success crowned the efforts of George Scollard of Mill Bay, Vancouver Island, a prisoner in the Vancouver city jail awaiting hearing on a theft charge, whose application for dismissal of a motion to enter judgment against him for $19,406 was granted by Mr. Justice D. Murphy in the British Columbia Supreme Court to-day.

The theft charge against Scollard arises out of difficulties with his former wife, a wealthy resident of Belingham, Wash.

Leave was reserved by the judge to-day to the plaintiff, B. C. Thompson, attorney-at-law, Belingham, to launch another motion for speedy judgment. Thompson sues for an alleged balance due on a judgment which he recovered against Scollard in Washington State on November 15, 1927, for $23,347.

OBJECTIONS HEARD

Objection was voiced by Alfred Bull on behalf of the defendant that the writ's endorsement was defective. Counsel also announced he would move Thompson should furnish $500 security for the reason that he resided outside the jurisdiction of the court. Scollard, according to the lawyer, contended he had not been properly served with the proceedings in the Washington action. Mr. Bull remanded the claim was a matter for the jury to decide.

One which the courts here might reach on these matters, the barrister was instructed by Mr. Justice Murphy to obtain an affidavit from his client, and the judge said Mr. Bull should be given permission to visit Scollard in jail for the purpose.

Spring Comes In With Rush Of Ocean Gale

Riding on the wings of a fifty-mile-an-hour gale, the Storm King last night ushered in Spring with gusto. He fingered to-day despite a beautiful day of blue fringed with wind-blown clouds.

Gusts which whistled around windows and roofs last night did minor damage. Level fences, broken trees and cracked window panes were reported.

Over a long period the highest velocity reached was forty-eight miles an hour, was maintained between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m., but in that time for short intervals the wind probably blew at fifty-five or sixty miles an hour.

At 2 o'clock, as it swung from the southwest to the west, the velocity decreased and at 5 o'clock was blowing about thirty miles an hour. There was still a stiff breeze blowing at noon.

Railways Are Planning To Move More Grain Through Ports Of B.C.

Winnipeg, March 21.—It is the policy of the Canadian Wheat Pool to move all of its exports from tidewater ports in the Dominion, where the time element and costs will permit. This was stated before the Saskatchewan Grain Inquiry Commission here yesterday by George McIvor, general sales manager of the pool, in explaining conditions which caused "so much wheat to go by United States routes to world markets."

Mr. McIvor stated the opening of the Pacific route had in a measure relieved the pressure that had forced so much Canadian grain over the Buffalo-New York route. He added that he understood the Canadian railways were now engaged in preparations that would permit a much larger volume of grain from Alberta and Saskatchewan to be moved by way of British Columbia ports.

In discussing the proposed Hudson Bay route, the witness ventured the statement that in time it might, with the increased facilities at Montreal and the British Columbia route, entirely eliminate the necessity of moving grain over the Buffalo route.

Bobby Jones on Golf

It is easy enough to start an argument anywhere about the necessity of preserving a straight left arm at the top of the swing. That one feature of the swing has probably been discussed more than any other single phase of the game, possibly because the condition of the arm is easily observed at the point where the direction of motion reverses and everything becomes stationary for a tiny fraction of a second.

But Harry Vardon proved that golf could be played exceedingly well even though the left elbow might be hinged slightly. Every photograph of Vardon which I have seen indicates plainly that there was some relaxation of the left elbow as the club reached the end of its backward motion.

What I have not seen satisfactorily demonstrated by any one is the possibility of playing even moderately decent golf without a straight right arm at impact. In studying many photographs of good players that is a striking characteristic which they all have in common. Just before the ball is struck the right arm straightens out and it remains straight for an appreciable space after the ball has been hit.

ADD POWER TO STROKE

I have a little idea of my own that this straightening process is the source of a large percentage of the power of the stroke. At the instant when every bit of energy which the player possesses is being hurled at the ball, the right arm is the means of transmitting power from the right side and shoulder. One trial is enough to show it is impossible to exert great force if the right arm is allowed to bend. If the elbow softens the entire burden is saddled squarely upon the forearm and wrists, and a powerful connection straight through to the right leg and to the ground is destroyed.

You may have noticed a good many duffers scuffling the ball along the ground, driving it a maximum of 150 yards each shot. The straight right arm is one thing they lack, and lacking it whatever strength they may have in shoulders and hips is utterly wasted. The left elbow acts as a shock absorber when it ought to be an almost rigid connection.

SPEED OF SWING BIG FACTOR

Apparently in golf power depends chiefly on how much winding up can be done without complicating too greatly the unwinding process. Power is speed and speed increases with motion. So the economy of the situation is found in moving the clubhead as fast as possible with movement easily executed by the player himself. The tremendous amount of power in the cocked position of the wrists is apparent if they are held in that position with arms down as at address. From that position by using only the wrists the clubhead can be moved through three or four feet. That can be done very quickly which means that it is an important factor in developing speed.

The function of the right arm is somewhat similar. Bent almost double at the top of the swing, its potency is measured by the amount of speed it can add to the swing, and its contribution reaches a maximum when it becomes straight. In the machinery of the perfect stroke every force is directed toward increasing the speed of the clubhead from zero at the top position to the tremendous velocity at the moment of impact with the ball. Recently I pointed out the advantages of a low finish—how the clubhead should pass close to the ground or in the case of an iron into the turf after striking the ball. Extending the right arm has a tendency to force the clubhead down-

U.S. Cabinet Members Have Sport Hobbies

Washington (By Mail).—President Hoover's new Cabinet might well be called the Cabinet of Sportsmen, for almost every one of the eight new members is a devotee of some sport in his spare time.

The chief executive, himself an ardent fisherman, should find much in common with two of the new members. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur and Arthur Hyde, heads of the Interior and Agricultural Departments, respectively, for both are disciples of Isaac Walton.

Dr. Wilbur prefers to angle for trout, but Secretary Hyde is willing to try for any species of the finny tribe.

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, is one of the foremost yachtsmen of the country. He was the owner of the yacht Resolute in the old days when Sir Thomas Lipton used to bring over his latest models to race for the America's Cup.

Riding and tennis are the chief pastimes of L. Stimson, who heads the State Department. In Manila, as Governor-General of the Philippines, he played tennis almost every day.

Another boating enthusiast is Postmaster-General Brown, who, however, confines himself to motorboats.

Attorney-General Mitchell likes golf, but would rather take motion pictures of wild life in the great open spaces.

The new War Department head, James W. Good, professes to have no favorite hobby, but his friends say he devotes much time to the study of political economy.

SCIENTISTS ARE EXPERIMENTING TO PRODUCE LIVING LIGHT

New York, March 21.—Scientific steps necessary to develop a light which will burn indefinitely, without heat, feeding on its own ashes, were described at a meeting of the American Institute here this week.

"Living light," such as that from the firefly, said Dr. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton University, was the basis from which this new type of illumination for human use might possibly be developed.

Though the steps necessary for success were few, he said, they were among the most difficult in research. In all the forty known groups of animals and the two groups of plants that glow, the cause never was phosphorus, as was popularly believed. It was something more difficult to imitate.

This "cold light," Dr. Harvey said, was a combination of luciferin and luciferase, and an enzyme, while all four seemed indispensable, Luciferin appeared as the principal ingredient. It was one of the proteins, which were nitrogenous substances that occurred in profuse varieties in all living things.

Enzymes were activating agencies, dynamo, small in proportions, but of powerful effect.

When luciferin was exposed to oxygen, Dr. Harvey explained, the two combined in a process called oxidation, which produced light.

The enzymes' part was to accelerate the oxidation. What the enzyme in this case might be was obscure, he said, but the nature of luciferin was better known.

"Chemically," said Dr. Harvey, "luciferin is probably to be placed among the simplest members of the proteins, the peptones or the proteoses. The question whether we shall ever be able to reproduce living light, becomes a question whether we shall ever be able to synthesize proteins. Personally I think it will come in the future."

Of Churchill, there is a great demand for transportation and there are going to be hundreds of people disappointed when they find they cannot get into the Hudson Bay port this Spring, stated Major McLachlan. The reason, he said, is the last 100 miles of rail have been laid on muskeg and it will take from after the breakup until the Fall to fill in the roadbed with train-hauled material.

Cottages For Farm Families

100 Houses to Be Built in Canada For Settlers From Britain

Montreal, March 21.—Erection of 100 cottages for the accommodation of families of British immigrants being recruited for farm labor in Canada will be undertaken during the coming year under a special agreement just concluded by the department of colonization of the Canadian National Railways and the White Star Line's Canadian Service and the British Government.

Announcement of the plan was made yesterday by Dr. W. J. Black, director of colonization for the railways, and L. S. Tobin, passenger manager in Canada for the steamship company.

Work upon the scheme will be commenced at once, and it is hoped to have some of the cottages ready for occupancy within the next few months.

TO SHARE COSTS

Recruitment of the families in Britain will be undertaken by the National Railways' colonization department and the White Star Line. Under the agreement, the cost of purchasing or leasing the necessary land, the erection of the cottages and their equipment and other costs incidental to the establishment of the families in the cottages will be borne equally by the British Treasury and the White Star Line and the administration of the scheme will be in charge of the Canadian National Land Settlement Association, which operates in conjunction with the colonization department of the railway.

The scheme is for the express purpose of providing temporary accommodation for British families who are entering farm employment in Canada and is by way of overcoming the difficulty which has been experienced to a great extent in the past in securing housing accommodations for such families.

TWO-ACRE AREAS

Each cottage will be erected on two acres of land and will be suitably furnished and also supplied with necessary outbuildings. The cottages will be erected within easy access of public highways and as close as possible to the families' place of employment. The cottages will be leased at a nominal rental to the immigrant families for a period not exceeding two years, which will make possible the continuous use of the cottages for other families coming and is based on the assumption that within the next few years each immigrant family will have become settled itself.

The cottages will be erected chiefly in the West, but some will be made for the establishment of cottages under the scheme in other provinces of Canada where suitable locations are available and where the conditions are such as to guarantee the establishment of the family concerned in a satisfactory manner.

ANTIQUE FRAUDS COME TO LIGHT

Louisville, Ky., March 21.—Kentucky mountaineers in a measure always have interested scientists. Their pure Anglo-Saxon blood, their ideals and ideas really make them an interesting people, but an idea evolved in recent years which resulted in many celebrated northern and eastern United States museums displaying "rare" Indian relics purchased at good prices.

Now is engaging the profound study of the scientist who soon will be called upon to testify in a federal court in Louisville as to their authenticity and whether or not famous museums have been duped by just a plain Kentucky mountaineer's ideas.

Cumberland City came to the attention of Indiana collectors, antique hunters and scientists upon discovery that the surrounding country abounded in a vast wealth of prehistoric objects of great value. The relics were of a strange variety and unknown to science.

From time of the discovery until Uncle Sam took a hand, there was a steady flow of rare pottery, objects of Indian art and decorations into hands of collectors, according to United States District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks of Louisville.

Certain relic collectors and experts began to lose faith in their purchases and their sales came to a halt. The Government. An investigation was started.

Agents of the Government uncovered Indian relics in the hills of Clinton County and finally they came upon a strange workshop. Their attention then was directed to Guifey, Bell and Jones.

The workshop was crude with but an old Ford car as its chief implement and power plant. It, however, turned out wares of great value.

Guifey, Bell and Jones have been cited to come down to the city from their mountain workshop on charges of using the mails to defraud and to tell just what they can do with an old Ford car and a few Kentucky mountain limestone rocks.

BYRD EXPLORERS WERE RESCUED FROM ICY SEA

An Arbor, Mich., March 21.—A near deadly Commander Byrd and his men, members of his Antarctic expedition a month ago during which Larry Gould, co-commander of the expedition, was killed, were rescued yesterday in a letter received yesterday by Professor William H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan.

Dr. Gould forwarded the letter by radio to the supply ship Eleanor Bolling and had it mailed from New Zealand.

The letter said in part: "Just to-day we escaped a near tragedy when a piece of the barrier on which we were unloading broke off and set one man into the icy water. Our biggest task was in rescuing the rescuers. I personally helped pull Commander Byrd out."

CANADIAN CLUB MEMBERS TO TOUR EUROPE

Montreal, March 21.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time since the Canadian Club movement was organized in Hamilton, Ont., thirty-seven years ago, members from all parts of Canada will form an official party and visit Europe during the coming Summer.

The tour, which is approved by the Association of Canadian Clubs, whose patrons are the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon, has been planned to give members of the Canadian clubs an opportunity to know more of the British Isles and France, from which the ancestors of present-day Canadians came within the last three centuries.

Sailing from Montreal June 8 aboard the White Star liner Laurentic, the party will visit Ireland first, including Belfast, Londonderry, the Giants' Causeway and Dublin, from where they will travel to Liverpool, the English lakes district, Glasgow, Edinburgh, York, Birmingham, Stratford-on-Avon and London, where they will be on Dominion Day.

From London they will go on to Ostend before concluding the tour in Paris. From Paris a number will go on an extensive tour to Switzerland, the Italian lakes and other parts of Italy.

Because of the interest in the Canadian Club movement in Great Britain and the number of leading men who have addressed the clubs throughout Canada, it is anticipated the party will be welcomed at many points, and the travelers will be received officially by Hon. P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain; Lord Byng, former Governor-General; Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, and other public men.

Five-day Week And Six-hour Day Plan

San Francisco, March 21.—Declaring sixty-five per cent of the painters in the United States were working a five-day week, Walter J. Ames, representative of the Painters' International Union, declared yesterday that the six-hour day was "just around the corner."

Speaking at the annual convention of the Building Trades Council of California, Ames asserted the five-day week was a necessity.

"It is only a question of whether the Government is to feed unemployed workers or whether they are to feed themselves. The five-day week, if generally adopted, should put most of the unemployed to work," said Ames.

The convention had gone on record as favoring the five-day week. It also had sent a committee to the State Legislature to protest against the day-light saving measure and to serve notice that if it should go into effect the carpenters would refuse to recognize it and would appeal for work at the customary time.

A committee also had been sent to voice approval of the anti-injunction bill.

Peter Verigin States Dookhobors' Views

Winnipeg, March 21.—Stating that communists were working out a "changing of seats," Peter Verigin, spiritual head of the Christian Community of Dookhobors, asserted in an interview here that Dookhobors were not communists in the accepted sense of the term. They looked upon all the world as one community, headed by Christ, and looked upon the country in which they lived as one community unit.

Mr. Verigin declared it was not Dookhobors, but Russians living on the borders of their community and wrongly considered members of it, who had been involved in trouble with the education authorities in British Columbia.

THE SESSION

THE SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE, which ended yesterday, was as long in duration as it was short in useful performance. Like the budget speech, it was long and skinny. It consumed more than two months for the dispatch of a legislative programme which should have been disposed of in half that time.

This was attributable largely to the inexperience and other handicaps of the new Government, none of whose members ever held a provincial Cabinet office, and most of whom had never even been members of the House before.

Probably not many electors familiar with the proceedings of the Legislature expected very much this session, notwithstanding the numerous pre-election pledges and assurances which floated through the air last Summer. Those who did must have been partly disillusioned long ago. As time goes on their disillusionment will be still greater.

The most important measures came down in the last days of the session. They were the Milk Bill and the waterpower control legislation. It is unfortunate that the latter measure was not introduced earlier in the session so that its terms and implications could have been more generally understood.

Those who looked for something startling or novel in the budget looked in vain. The new Government is pledged to the reduction of taxation and the curtailment of borrowing. All it reduced in the way of taxation were the succession duties. And the indications are that as a borrower it is going to make its predecessor look cheap.

The amendment to the Superannuation Act, bringing the teaching profession within its scope, is a move in the right direction. The change in the Game Act may be a good one; we shall see how it works. The bounty on steel production is a revival of the legislation initiated by the late Mr. Sloan.

While the budget gave no relief to the taxpayers, the Minister of Finance made a special point of finding room in it to warn them that there was too much "paternal legislation" on the statute books of this Province, the plain implication being that they may expect no more of it as long as he has charge of the public purse.

The session was punctuated by a number of indiscretions, some verbal and others political, which got the Government into hot water. Mr. Pooley entangled himself with the Vancouver Province, the Government's most powerful journalistic supporter, over the motion picture censorship bill. Another—and much more serious—reaction followed the peremptory dismissal of Judge MacGill of the Juvenile Court of Vancouver.

This was an unwarranted interference with the judiciary which since has echoed all over the country. Newspapers of every shade of political thought have devoted editorial comment to the incident and a general opinion seems to have been reached which is far from flattering to the Government as a whole or to the Attorney-General in particular.

The public was especially surprised at this action by the Government. In many platform speeches before the election Dr. Tolmie was emphatic in his declaration that he would countenance no disturbance with competent servants in the pay of the Province on political or any other grounds. As long as any Government over which he might preside got a dollar's worth of work for a dollar paid, no servant need fear for his job. Even after he had been authorized to form a Government, Dr. Tolmie reiterated his statement that no civil servant would be dismissed without adequate cause. This pledge has been ignored.

If this session proved to be the graveyard of certain public hopes, it also was the burial place of our venerable friend the log export question. The last rites were performed by the Premier and Hon. Mr. Bruhn, who declared that the export of logs was a business necessity and the Government would not think of trying to stop it. The session will be memorable for that moving ceremony if for not very much else.

THE DEAD PAST

ONE OF PRESIDENT HINDENBURG's advisers has explained why the head of the German republic is compelled to decline to comment upon the passing of Marshal Foch. If he were merely a retired Marshal, the statement goes, there would be no objection to his paying public tribute to his late adversary; but von Hindenburg now is President and, as such, a political personage.

If the President's adviser had let it go at that, official Germany's reaction to the death of the great Marshal might have appeared to the world in a more favorable light; but he says that "however highly von Hindenburg may esteem Foch as a military man, the German people simply would not understand why he should pay tribute to the man who at Compiègne so deeply humiliated the German Armistice Commission. It is not his quality of a soldier that we question, but the manner in which he 'rubbed' in his authority."

It is not necessary to ask whether Germany expected the Armistice Commission—which included the late Herr Erzberger, who spent many "heavy hours" over the terms which the Allies presented—to be received like a long-lost brother; but it is pertinent to recall the manner employed by Bismarck when he dictated his terms in Paris at the conclusion of the Franco-Prussian War. If Foch "rubbed" it in, the Iron Chancellor "hammered" it in.

A GREAT BENEFACTOR

THERE LIVES IN OTTAWA AN eminent Canadian who only talks for publication occasionally, although he is one of this country's greatest benefactors. His name is Dr. Charles E. Saunders and he recently described how he came to hit upon the famous Marquis wheat with which his name always will be associated.

The significance of the story is contained in a few words—one head of wheat in 1903 became 300,000,000 bushels eleven years later! The original strain of Marquis wheat, however, came from what Dr. Saunders calls "a collection of junk left over from a lot no one had time to work with" in the experimental plots of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Ottawa. And here is the history of a great agricultural triumph.

Dr. Saunders had formed the habit of chewing wheat kernels until they became a little mass of elastic dough or gum. By preference, when working with wheat, he would chew one variety on one side of his mouth and another on the other, thus making comparative tests for elasticity and flavor. One day he chewed what seemed to him to be an exceptionally attractive pellet of the wheat gum. There is the story. Now eighty per cent. of the wheat-growing area of the West is covered with wheat produced from the variety he chewed more than a quarter of a century ago.

This will be the name of Dr. Saunders remain written large on the scroll of Canadian achievement.

A LIBERAL GAIN

ALTHOUGH THE BALDWIN GOV-ernment has been faring badly in recent byelections in the Old Country, it was hardly to be supposed that the Conservative Party would lose the contest which took place yesterday in the Eddisbury division of Cheshire. But the Liberals captured the seat—made vacant by the death of Sir H. Barnston—R. J. Russell, a former unsuccessful candidate in 1923 and 1924, polling 10,223 votes and Lieut.-Col. B. C. Palmer, the Government candidate, polling 8,931 votes.

Only in one election in this constituency has a Liberal headed the poll in nearly forty years until yesterday. The former interruption of a long chain of Conservative successes was in the general elections of 1906, the contest which sealed the fate of the Tariff Reform policy and carried the Liberal Party into office with a record majority. In fact, Eddisbury has been regarded as almost a Conservative preserve, for on no fewer than six occasions since 1895 the party's candidate has been returned without opposition.

STILL INCREASING

EVERY TIME HON. JAMES A. Robb consults Canada's automobile production statistics he must recall with not a little satisfaction the attitude with which he and the Prime Minister took when the monster delegation of automobile manufacturers and workmen waited upon them and predicted ruin for the industry if the Government persisted in its policy of lower duties on imported motor cars.

Last year's production, for example, set a new record of 242,382 cars, having a sales value, f.o.b. plant, of $151,826,338. This output was eighteen per cent greater in number and twenty-four per cent higher in value than in 1926, the next best year, when 204,727 cars, valued at $122,629,537, were made. In 1927, it is now pointed out, production totaled 179,054 cars, valued at $115,904,228.

Compared with data for the previous year, figures for 1928 show that the number of cars made available for use in Canada was the highest on record, and that the number of cars imported and the number exported also reached new high levels. Imports for the year totaled 47,408 cars, an increase of twenty-nine per cent over the corresponding figure of 36,630 cars in 1927, and exports numbered 79,855 cars, or thirty-eight per cent more than the total of 57,852 cars shipped in the previous year.

The apparent "consumption" of motor cars in Canada last year was 210,035, a figure which compares with 157,832 cars in 1927 and 158,577 cars in 1926. During the year under review, moreover, one new car was made available for every forty-six persons in the Dominion. Registration figures, according to the Bureau of Statistics, are not yet ready for 1928; but those for 1927 showed that one car was in use for every ten persons in this country—ample evidence of our prosperity.

Trotsky has received little sympathy in his extremity. He gave little when he had the opportunity. THE PREFERRED COUNTRIES
The Manitoba Free Press

The reason why some countries were listed as preferred and others as non-preferred was that they were regarded from the point of view of the comparative readiness with which their people would become assimilated with the Canadian population. BURN KIRK'S COAL

"Does Last Longer"

KIRK COAL CO. LTD.

1212 BROAD ST. PHONE 139

Across the Bay

The House leaves things just about where they were—after laboring much longer than necessary to accomplish very little—and another session is over.

The Legislature has gone home at last and a great peace broods over James Bay. The Legislature has gone home and left things just about where it found them. It labored for nearly nine weeks, it talked for forty days and a good many nights, but when you survey the results thereof, they look like a job easily finished in half the time.

Probably the work of the session could have been completed in half the time if things had been different. Unfortunately there was much to hold up business from the very start. It was for the most part a green Government that met the House, and it moved warily. Instead of pushing the session along, it let the session push it. More than a month was gone before it began to realize that the House would be in session until Midsummer at the prevailing rate of progress. And then, too, much important business was introduced towards the end that the end was postponed long past the date which everyone desired.

It was not that the Government talked over much. Per capita, it talked much less than the Opposition, but there was no apparent driving power behind the House leadership. Much of this must be attributed, of course, to the illness which kept Premier Tolmie away most of the session and which will force him to take a holiday immediately upon the adjournment.

The Opposition also helped to prolong the session, as it felt in duty bound to do, in order to register objection to many of the Government's acts. The Opposition proved itself highly effective. Led by men who had been in charge of the affairs of the Province for twelve years, it was able to handle all issues as they came up with a background of experience which the Government did not possess. Mr. Pattullo, the Opposition Chief, gave his followers a leadership marked by clear-cut criticism, intimate knowledge of public business, indomitable tenacity, and a speaking ability which surprised even his friends.

In addition to that, Mr. Pattullo displayed a good nature and a desire to assist in putting useful legislation on the statute books. Unlike oppositions in recent parliaments, that led by Mr. Pattullo was constantly urged by constructive policies, and not without effect, despite the Government's heavy majority.

Looking back over the session, only two pieces of legislation stand out as really of first magnitude—the Milk Act and the Water Act. Probably this first session of the Seventeenth Parliament will go down in history, if it goes down at all, as the milk-and-water session.

The Water Act undoubtedly is a bold measure, under which the operations of public utility companies can be rigorously administered. Its whole usefulness in protecting consumers of electricity will depend upon the character of the regulations administered. Upon the water board, a group of officials of the Lands Department, the whole success of this new experiment in public utility legislation will depend. Its powers are so wide that it can virtually do as it pleases, and the big question is whether it will act without any shadow of governmental influence. To act with absolute independence may require real courage in officials whose other activities are subject to the will of the Government day by day.

The Milk Act is a bit of an enigma. No one in the House really likes it, but the measure was passed as desperate attempt to solve the milk problem of the Fraser Valley. It will not come into effect for a year, and if by that time the co-operating and independent farmers can get together and work out a solution of their troubles themselves, the bill may never be enforced. This is a consummation devoutly to be wished so far as the House is concerned.

The only other measure of vital interest to the average British Columbian is the new Male Minimum Wage Act. The big trouble about this statute is that it may never work according to its critics. The next year will show whether the experiment can succeed or not.

Apart from the Water Act and some drastic alterations in the agricultural system, the Government did not attempt to make much change in the policies inaugurated by the Liberal regime. The Budget committee surprised everybody by its emptiness, and it hurt the Government. It hurt the Government because the only taxation it reduced was in succession duties—normally a man's tax—while it made an oblique attack on social legislation: an attack which the Government has been trying to explain away ever since. In the end, this probably helped the cause of social legislation, because it raised so much protest that it will be a bold government which will ever venture to interfere with any existing measure of this kind.

The real effects of the Government's financing, however, are far from clear yet. It has launched policies which will increase the Provincial debt enormously, but how much no one knows. It will all depend upon the amount of relief granted to the Sumas farmers, the settlers in the Oliver district and the irrigators of the Okanagan Valley. Anyway, the borrowings of the next year or so should make anything the Liberal Government did along this line appear very feeble.

The session brought together for the first time the new members who were elected last July, and gave the country an idea of what it may expect from them in the next four years. The new members did not seek to thrust themselves upon the Assembly, but were content to allow their chief to do most of the fighting. It was evident, however, that the last election infused some valuable new blood into the political life of the Province. On the Government side, the outstanding additions to the Conservative ranks are probably Mr. Maitland and Mr. Lougheed, the former for his skill as a parliamentarian and the latter for his quiet ability as an administrator. The Opposition had little fault to find with these two ministers.

In the Opposition ranks, the new member who impressed the House most was Mr. Pearson of Nanaimo, not alone for his ready flow of language, but for the extreme earnestness which he brought to his duties. There is a lack of narrow partisanship about Mr. Pearson that the House liked, and he was accorded a hearing such as is usually reserved for the bigger guns. Another newcomer who won instant popularity was Dr. Gillis of Yale, who makes no pretences at parliamentary brilliance, but contributed to the work of the House many constructive ideas which some day will find their way into the statutes. Mr. Hanna of Alberni, possibly the youngest member of the House, is also one of the most promising. The Liberal Party, on the whole, is fortunate in its representation.

SUPPORT VICTORIA

To the Editor:—As one of the wage earners of this city I would like to express my surprise at the St. Joseph's Hospital sending their order for mattresses for their new wing to Vancouver. Of course they may have a price completely furnishing the wing, which included the mattresses, but considering the large number of married women employed in the mattress industry here and also that the local plant and machinery are as modern as any in Vancouver or in the Dominion, for that matter, it is particularly distressing to see this large amount of work go out of the city, especially from hospitals which, like the workers, are dependent upon the community.

As I say I don't know why the work was sent to Vancouver, but I do know that Victoria builds mattresses equal to any in Canada. I have seen a mattress business for twenty years and I have yet to see a better mattress than Victoria makes. All the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and merchants' associations can be of little avail in building up an industrial Victoria when large hotels, hospitals and merchants' stores particularly for goods made in Victoria, their home.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars is invested in the mattress industry here and a large number of workers employed at the plant, why not support your home town?

VICTORIANS! STOP! LISTEN!

To the Editor:—Victoria's loss, Vancouver's gain. May I recall the fact that J. Carl Pendray, Esq., and last year's civil industrialist, who was in close touch with Mr. H. E. Elie, chairman of Wm. Cooke & Co., Sheffield, England, through their British Columbia representatives, Mr. Clegg and Mr. C. S. Hobbs, and after much thought and labor, two sites were considered as the best for steel industries here and in view. One of these sites was at Esquimalt, in the vicinity of the Dominion Drydock, and the other at Ogden Point. This latter site was endorsed by the Dominion authorities as being suitable for the purpose required.

Citizens will further recall the fact of an unfortunate scene which took place in our Council Chamber when two members thought fit to unduly criticize the representatives of these English capitalists, who at the time were negotiating with us for the establishment of their industries on Vancouver Island, and the receipt of a letter from them on the following day breaking off all negotiations on account of the attacks made upon them, a copy of which letter I have in my possession.

Now a Herod has come to judgment. The Honorable the Provost of Mines introduced a bill at the recent session of the local Legislature offering a bounty for the establishment of a steel plant in the city of Vancouver, by Messrs. Wm. Cooke & Co. (Canada) of Vancouver, also of Sheffield, England.

On the tragedy of it all, as far as Vancouver Island and Victoria is concerned. Our own people and our own sons block our dear old city and island entering into its right heritage and the loss to us of a basic industry with the employment and residence of several hundred skilled artisans.

H. O. LITCHFIELD.

Alderman.

ONE PRISONER IS SENTENCED

Thomas Smith Only One Sentenced at Assizes; Three Charges Fail

The Spring Assizes closed yesterday afternoon at the Courthouse after seven days of trials which resulted in the acquittal of two accused, withdrawal by Mr. Justice Morrison of one case from the jury, and conviction of one prisoner.

Joseph Haig was declared not guilty of breaking the windows of an automobile last Fall, the case having been withdrawn from the Fall Assizes for a second trial after a jury disagreement. James Davis was acquitted, after two trials, of manslaughter of Thomas Pennefather last January, when a car driven by the accused crashed into a telephone pole on Signal Hill, Esquimalt.

Mrs. Pina Bernick, charged with attempting to bribe a police officer, was discharged by Judge Morrison without submitting the case to the jury, when a flaw was found in the authority under which Chief of Police Fry entered and searched her home.

Thomas Smith of Los Angeles, convicted of rape, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary and deportation.

SAVED WHIPPING

When imposing sentence, Mr. Justice Morrison said: "Had I been on the jury, I am not sure but I would have taken a view entirely different from that which they took. But the jury added a recommendation to mercy, and the Courts always give full value to such recommendations by juries. 'The recommendation to mercy justifies me in elimination of whipping. I wish to point out to the prisoner that the penalty originally imposed for this offence was hanging. This has been modified to seven years and whipping for even attempting to rape. 'I hesitate to prolong your stay in this country at the expense of the country, and this has also been taken into consideration. Under all the circumstances, I sentence you to five years in the penitentiary and shall recommend that you be deported.'"

New York Again Sees "The Black Crook"

New York. By Matti.—At the old Lyric Theatre in Hoboken, where many years ago Lily Langtry thrilled the "wonderful" womenfolk in a piece called "A Wife's Peril," there is now under way a revival of that grandfather of all American musical shows, "The Black Crook." It is being produced by the Hoboken Theatrical Company, in which Christopher Morley, heretofore known chiefly as a writer of whimsical essays and novels, is the moving spirit.

Sixty-two years ago last October, at Niblo's Gardens, down on what would now be described as lower Broadway, the world premiere of "The Black Crook" was given, and at the same time New York got its first glimpse of "ladies in tights."

About a month after the opening word got out that it was a highly immoral affair. "And," says Mr. Morley, "from then on it was a sell-out."

After sixteen months, it was still going strong in late December, 1867, when Charles Dickens came over. To his biographer, John Forster, he wrote a very funny description of it—how "the powers of lightness (in no skirts whatever)" came to the rescue of the hero.

It was revived in the 70's, again in the 80's, and again in the 90's.

Certainly Not

Arthur.—Darling, I love you so much that I dream of you every time I sleep.

His Darling.—Oh, Arthur, if you loved me properly you would not be able to sleep at all!

"Is this a genuine antique?" "It is, madam," replied the dealer. "Why, here's a mark that indicates it was made less than twenty-five years ago."

"Oh—er—exactly. You must remember, madam, that we are living in a very rapid age. It doesn't take nearly as long to make an antique as it used to."

Actor Thrills Audience With Fine Dual Role

Bransby Williams Gives Fine Characterizations in Dickens's "Oliver Twist"

Playing again one of the roles which gained for him international fame many years ago, Bransby Williams, great English character actor, thrilled a small but appreciative audience in the presentation of Dickens's "Oliver Twist" at the Royal Victoria Theatre last night.

The play will be produced again this evening, and will be followed by "Treasure Island" to-morrow night and Saturday afternoon and evening.

As Fagin, the Jew, and Mr. Grimwig, the gruff old bachelor of the story, Mr. Williams offered perhaps the finest interpretations of the characters ever seen on Victoria's stage and won unqualified applause from those who saw the production.

He is particularly well supported by Kathleen Saintsbury, the leading lady, who portrays the character of Nancy, while Lodge Percy, as Bill Sykes, gives a faultless impersonation of the notorious burglar.

Scarcely less impressive were the characterizations of Betty Booth, who played little Oliver, and Frederick Garbutt, in the role of Mr. Brownlow. Ian Priestly-Mitchell, "The Artful Dodger," drew much applause from the spectators in his able presentation of the prince of the "light-fingered gentry."

UNPARALLELED ACTING

Following talented acting as Fagin, the sly teacher of vice, Mr. Williams coaches the plucky of the play in the prison cell where the Jew sends his last night. With the audience in spellbound silence, Fagin recalls his deeds, conjures before him his disciples in crime and falls at the close of the scene in a dramatic climax to his evil life.

The gruesome vein of tragedy is realistically sustained in the scenes where Nancy warns Mr. Brownlow to keep the closest guard over young Oliver and in the murder scene in Bill Sykes's garret.

In the latter, the fiendish work of Fagin, the brutality of the syphes and the deep, though unreasoning, love of Nancy strike a deep cord of horror that holds the audience tense.

NOTE OF HUMOR

Relieving the tension, Mr. Williams, as Mr. Grimwig, introduces a note of light comedy into the play with frequent humorous sallies against the stupidity of his friend, Mr. Brownlow, in trusting thieves. Bumble, played by C. Harcourt Brooke, furnishes a fine foil for Grimwig's wit and adds greatly to the levity of the scenes in which the two characters appear.

As the sombre, morally-twisted Monks, Harold Finden forms a great contrast to the innocent, sweet-natured Rose Maylie, who also introduces a brighter side into the play. Rose Maylie is charmingly played by Margaret Ives.

The remainder of the cast fill to perfection their respective roles and play a great part in the successful presentation of the drama.

FINE SETTINGS

From Fagin's dingy den to the well-ordered house of Mr. Brownlow, the scenes show a true picture of the time.

Among the finest settings is the cameo on London Bridge steps. Down in the cold grey lead leading to the river, the audience sees Nancy telling Brownlow and Rose Maylie her tale of woe in settings which truly suggest the emptiness of her life.

In his remarks at the close of the play, Mr. Williams thanked the audience for its reception of his presentation. Although he was disappointed at the small attendance he was deeply sensible of the enthusiasm with which the small house had greeted his production, he said.

"SHANGHAIED" AT THE COLUMBIA HAS RALPH INCE AS STAR

Ralph Ince, who plays the dual role of star and director in "Shanghai'd," the FBO sea picture now running at the Columbia Theatre, has won considerable renown for his characterizations of Abraham Lincoln in no less than six big screen productions glorifying the life of the Great Emancipator.

Because of his exceptional histrionic ability and his great resemblance to the martyred president, the famous star-director has been chosen to play Lincoln in the following productions: "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "The Higher Tribute," "Lincoln and Ann Rutledge," "The Seventh Son," and "The Better Way."

In addition to his parts in these big feature pictures, Ince has appeared as Lincoln in several educational films sponsored by the States Government and has become perhaps the best known Lincoln characterizer on the screen.

CLAIRE WINDSOR IS LEADING LADY AT THE CAPITOL

Admirers of Victor McLaglen—and they are legion—will be out in force this week at the Capitol Theatre to witness the latest opus from the Fox studios starring that lovable "he-man."

"Captain Lash" is the title of the new McLaglen vehicle, and it has received the deft directorial touch of John G. Blystone, who won worldwide fame for his recently produced "Mother Knows Best."

McLaglen is Captain Lash, a sobriquet conferred on him because of his relentless way of driving his stokers aboard an ocean liner. His particular pal is Cocky, a diminutive seaman, played by the English comic, Clyde Cook.

Off ship Captain Lash is a lovable chap, generous with his money, frankly a "chaser" and ever ready to fight as to make love.

"Captain Lash" is the best vehicle McLaglen has had since "What Price Glory?" In every way it is a credit to Fox Film.

Following the success of their first instalment of excerpts from "Keep Moving," the Coyne Musical Comedy Company will to-night present an entirely new programme, all from the same source. Sidney Burl will appear in his great character comedy part of "Old Bill, the Stage Hand," and butt in to the show at his own sweet will. This is a part which he has played in about twenty different countries and to most of his audiences he is better known as "Old Bill" than Sidney Burl.

The featured sketch for rest of the programme will be "Beauty For All," which will give a new angle to the beauty parlor specialists.

LOIS MORAN AND GEORGE O'BRIEN AT PLAYHOUSE

Co-starring in "True Heaven" at the Playhouse Theatre, are George O'Brien and Lois Moran, both of whom give colorful interpretations of their parts. O'Brien appears as a British lieutenant who, back of the lines in Belgium, falls in love with a mysterious girl, known as "Judith." Later, while a member of a British intelligence unit, he discovers that "Judith" is an enemy spy. The developments that follow provide one thrill after another.

Well-known actors of both the screen and stage make up the rest of the cast. Prominent are Donald MacKenzie, Hedwig Riecher, Duke Martin and Will Stanton.

COLISEUM PLAYERS PLEASES IN GOOD MYSTERY OFFERING

With a mystery play which is a thriller, the Coliseum Players, under the direction of Raymond "Toby" Leitch, are pleasing audiences at the Coliseum Theatre all this week. "The House of Fear" is a tale of weird and uncanny happenings.

On the screen this week, Lionel Barrymore is appearing in "The Goodbye Kiss," and this excellent film, coupled with the stage attraction, combine to make an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The settings for the stage attraction are laid in a dusky and diabolical old castle on a supposedly haunted island. The stage presents a dark appearance and the players creep around excitedly, reacting to each other. They hear a sort of ghostly sounds and see weird apparitions. The plot is a strong one.

The players are splendidly cast and give most realistic impersonations of persons in the ruined old castle, with bats and cobwebs and rattling doors. Miss Leone Webber, dainty leading lady with the company, is again pleasing her audiences, while "Toby" Leitch, in the personification of the play, gets many hearty laughs from the audience. He is also giving good performances in their respective roles are Miss Ada Daniels, Miss Esther Todd, Forrest Taylor, Paul Wallace, Leon Cluff and Lorus Bagsley.

GRIPPING PLOT IS FEATURE OF FILM AT THE DOMINION

Screen entertainment far above the average will be presented to the Dominion Theatre audience this week with "Four Sons," a Fox Film production directed by John Ford, who already has to his credit such outstanding screen successes as "Mother Machree" and "The Iron Horse." In "Four Sons," Ford has surpassed his previous efforts and the result is a picture in which pathos, drama and color are perfectly blended.

The story opens in a village in the Bavarian Tyrol, where Mrs. Bernie and her four sons are living. The war comes. Three of the sons answer the call to arms, while the fourth, who previously had sailed for New York, marries a beautiful United States girl and prospers. When the war breaks out he is torn between love for his fatherland and love for the country of his adoption. At last, he joins the United States colors and sails to fight against his brothers. On the battlefield he encounters Andre, the youngest and only surviving brother.

With the war ended, Joseph returns to his little family in New York. His mother is alone in the old home. She sails for the United States to join him, but difficulties develop at Ellis Island. How she finally gains entrance to United States and finds happiness at last is graphically told, with never a moment that doesn't pull at the heart-strings.

Esmond Play at Garden Friday

Co-optimist Comedy Company Will Produce Comedy By Famous Actor-author

"The Woman in Chains," a brilliant comedy from the pen of that eminent actor and author, the late Henry V. Esmond will be the main part of a double bill the Co-optimist Comedy Company will present at the Crystal Garden on Friday night.

This well-known play will be preceded by "Establishing Relations," a colloquial farce by W. W. Jacobs, enjoyed great success when it was first presented in London. With Eva Moore, wife of the author, playing the woman in chains, the play ran for an extremely long period.

With rare wit and humor, the story deals with the conventions—"chains" of honor. Mrs. Althea is a widow, having just married off her daughter happily and having given her son a good start in life, feels that she is entitled to a holiday and escape from the many conventions to which she has been bound during a life of dutiful loyalty to a husband who gave her little time for herself. Flapper Vote Minor Factor In Election

Says Major Chapman-Houston in Address to Women's Canadian Club

Glimpses of political and social conditions in Great Britain were brought to the Women's Canadian Club at its meeting yesterday afternoon by Major Desmond Chapman-Houston, noted author, in one of the most interesting addresses given this season.

Touching upon the feminine vote, known in Great Britain as the "flapper" vote, the speaker expressed the opinion that this vote, contrary to popular opinion, is not the dominating factor in the coming elections. He believes that because the women have received the franchise recently are mostly young, have little interest in politics and political education, they, in the majority of cases, will follow the lead of their menfolk.

Major Chapman-Houston described the workings of the vote, its unemployment insurance is popularly known, and gave some interesting side-lights on the general strike in Great Britain, illustrating his descriptions with humorous incidents.

Speaking of the proposed tour of the Association of Canadian Clubs to Europe this summer, Major Chapman-Houston outlined the itinerary with many interesting ideas on the country and cities to be visited. He thought it an excellent idea that Canadians should go to England and learn at first hand the conditions existing there, for the exchange of personal experience and visits was most important.

A trip is proposed to the Canadian cemeteries, and he hoped that the Canadian party would take a prominent part in the Dominion Day celebrations which would take place in London, while they are there. Optional tours to Italy and Normandy were mentioned.

Mrs. S. F. Toimie, recently appointed honorary vice-president, was welcomed to the gathering by Mrs. C. C. Spofford, the president, and presented with a bouquet in greeting. Mrs. Spofford announced that Mrs. E. C. Hart and Miss Riddell would represent the club at the National Council of Education conference.

Major McKenna will speak before the club on Thursday, April 4, on the subject, "Canada North of the 60th Parallel."

Mrs. Styles Sehl charmed the gathering with vocal recitals, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Paul Green.

CRIME CLUBS IN GERMANY GROW

Berlin (by mail)—Criminal organization in Germany has reached a high state of perfection. There are numerous "crime clubs" in which for a small initiation and monthly dues members are provided with tools and disguises for the commission of any "job" they may have in hand. Money is advanced for railway fares and the services of a competent lawyer are provided. Information is also kept on file of the idiosyncrasies of individual night watchmen and policemen.

Members of the clubs are enrolled under false names, usually English ones, and are governed in their relations with one another by a strict set of rules, infraction of which is punished in some cases with death. The greatest crime is stealing from a fellow member or knowingly getting the better of him in any way. To bear witness against him in court is a serious offense. There are some twenty-five of these clubs, according to the annual police report, all affiliated with four central organizations known as the "Four Rings."

One of the organizations, the "Ever-true Athletic Club," recently appeared in the open when two of its members were tried for murder as a result of deaths in a street fight. It was alleged "Ever-true" attacked members of the Carpenters' Guild, with whom they have long been at enmity. The "Ever-trues" are renowned bruisers and frequently are engaged as "chuckers-out" with traveling shows. The carpenters take a keen delight in starting rows at such shows and have often clashed with the "Ever-true lads," sometimes to the discredit of the latter's professional reputation.

Mrs. Kildred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

GETTING AWAY FROM THE EVER-TRUE BOTTLE

Mrs. H. C. D. writes:

"My baby will soon be one year old and I am having a great deal of difficulty taking the bottle away from her. For three weeks she has had no milk by bottle in the daytime. She gets what she takes on cereals and puddings, but at night when she goes to bed, she will take about five or six ounces by bottle and again in the morning. During the daytime I have tried the cup, but she won't take it. Would it be advisable to put something nasty tasting on the nipple to sicken her of it?"

"I wish you could suggest something, as I seem to be making no headway."

ANSWER:

This isn't a matter that can always be accomplished. I have known a baby develop a habit of such long standing it is always difficult. That is the chief reason for advocating cup feedings very early in the child's life. Mothers who begin this when the babies are less than six months old have no difficulty changing from bottle to cup. But, of course, that doesn't help you.

I should continue exactly as you are doing now for the daytime feedings. Use as much milk as possible in the food. Three meals a day are in order after one year, so that you would eliminate the early bottle. Baby can be given orange juice and water when she wakens and then her breakfast at 9 o'clock. A few days may be somewhat unpleasant until she gets used to this change, but if you can keep her occupied happily in her crib until breakfast, the habit of waiting will then be formed. Then at breakfast you can give at least half of what she would take in her bottle, and in the evening. Cook the cereal in milk and use much milk in it and give it to her. Offer the rest from a small cup.

Continue to offer the cup, or glass, at each regular meal, at twelve, a feeding of milk at 3.30, and then at night offer her the cereal again, using as much milk in it and give it to her, thus leaving very little to be fed by bottle. You may give this bottle when the child goes to bed. Then I would gradually reduce the amount given by bottle, using one ounce less each day. At the end of the fifth or sixth day, there will be no milk and by this time the baby will have become somewhat accustomed to going to sleep without a bottle of milk and won't raise such a howl when deprived of it.

You will just have to be patient about offering the milk by cup, not forcing it, or attaching anything distasteful to it until baby accepts it willingly. I think putting on nasty tasting liquids would no doubt spoil the bottle for the baby and perhaps make all future feedings of milk in any form whatever. Don't do it.

DRIFT TO CITIES FROM FARMS IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Vancouver, March 21.—How the world was troubled with the rush of people from the farms to the cities was outlined by Dr. L. S. Kline, president of the University of British Columbia, in an address before the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists here last night.

Dr. Kline spoke on "Gleanings From the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome."

At the convention at Rome, which was a delegate of the Federal Government, the speaker outlined the rural exodus, he said. The dangers of deserted fields were evident in many countries.

How Mussolini, dictator of Italy, had made an attempt to meet the problem was told. Dr. Kline had attended a luncheon at the Italian Premier's house personally awarded medals to peasants for growing good wheat.

In Belgium the eight-hour day had been introduced into industry. It meant leisure for industrial workers who, following hours in the factories, returned to nearby farms, where they carried on agricultural work.

Crowding into cities meant adding to the city population numbers of persons without means, said Dr. Kline. Three followed unrest which in many countries had grown into revolution. This was indirectly traceable to desertion of the fields.

MIGRATION FIELD

The decrease in the number of agricultural workers in Great Britain had reached a point where the Dominion could no longer seek agricultural immigrants in that country with any degree of success, the speaker said.

Dr. Kline praised the work of Mussolini in restoring the countryside in Italy by carrying out works of irrigation and drainage reclamation. Where land was not being farmed efficiently, Mussolini took it away from the owner and turned it over to real workers.

Relations between agricultural, commerce and finance were the subject of the speaker, who believed that in the recent name of Professor Drummond to the chair of economics and commerce at the University of British Columbia, a man had been chosen who could co-ordinate to some extent these three important factors in the life of British Columbia.

Arm Ached with Neuritis

"My left arm was almost useless from neuritis. The piercing pain bothered me all day. At night the sharp twinges would wake me right out of my sleep. I suffered terribly until one day I tried 'St. Jacob's Oil'. The relief I got from this simple oil was unbelievable. My arm feels fine now."

Good old "St. Jacob's Oil" is one remedy that really stops the pains and aches of Neuritis, Rheumatism, Backache, Lumbago and Neuralgia. The relief is almost instantaneous because this marvelous oil goes directly to the affected part and as quickly draws out all the ache and pain. And it doesn't burn or blister the skin. Get a small bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" to-day at your druggist's and see how it relieves pain.

CANADIAN GRAIN PRODUCTION AND STORAGE EXPAND

Canada's grain production is steadily on the upgrade, according to returns compiled here to-day by R. S. Mabee, manager of the investment banking department of Pemberton and Son. In 1928, for instance, no less than 2,328,000 acres of new land were added to the Dominion's agricultural producing area. In volume the crop was of record proportions. The wheat crop, in particular, reached a new peak, exceeding the half billion bushel mark. The Dominion's agricultural production in 1928, the highest previous yield in Canadian history and 110,000,000 bushels greater than the average yield of the five years from 1922 to 1928. One result of these enormous yields has been a remarkable increase in exports, more particularly in wheat, the export of this commodity in November, 1928, reaching a new high level for any single month in the history of the country at 75,416,000 bushels, while for the twenty months ended November the total was also a peak at 861,148,000 bushels, valued at $489,880,000.

The grain production in Canada can be expected to continue to increase at the same or an accelerated rate is indicated on every hand. According to figures recently issued by the Board of Grain Commissioners, the branch railway line construction is under way in Western Canada, giving more efficient transportation facilities to newly settled sections and opening up virgin territory to new settlers. It is further borne out by the large amount of elevator construction in progress all over the country, both in the heart of the grain-growing areas and at terminals, which has been an outstanding feature of the last couple of years.

BOARD'S FIGURES

In the crop season of 1927-28, according to figures recently issued by the Board of Grain Commissioners, grain elevators in Canada increased from 4,583 at 1,798 stations with a capacity of 28,818,200 bushels to 4,823 at 1,852 stations with a capacity of 310,822,200. Thus in the course of the year fifty-four new stations were given grain storage facilities, 265 new elevators came into existence and the Dominion's total storage capacity was increased by 28,014,000 bushels. In the western division the number of elevators increased from 4,583 to 4,796 and their capacity from 243,508,200 bushels to 285,222,200 bushels. There was an increase from twenty-five to twenty-seven elevators in the eastern division, the capacity rising from 41,110,000 bushels to 47,610,000 bushels. The great increase was in country elevators, the capacity of which went up by 8,478,200 bushels, and private elevators which added storage for 26,534,000 bushels. Manitoba added twenty-one elevators, Saskatchewan 100, Alberta 140, British Columbia three and Ontario one.

During 1928 apparently a yet more vigorous program of elevator construction was carried out. In that period, according to announcement, 250 new elevators were constructed in the province alone. An equally elaborate programme has been laid out for the present year. The great activity in branch railway line construction in Western Canada bringing many new grain shipping points into existence and a more active flow of new settlers will necessitate much new elevator construction on the prairies within the next few years.

NEW TERMINALS

A corresponding amount of new building is necessitated at terminals to handle the greater amount of grain coming to them for export, and continual expansion is taking place at these. With an aggregate storage capacity of more than 70,000,000 bushels, the twin ports of Fort William and Port Arthur have now the greatest concentrated grain capacity in the world. According to present plans, this will reach a total of 100,000,000 bushels by 1930. Toronto has been provided with a 2,000,000-bushel elevator, which is in operation, and preparations are being made to give Prescott an enormous storage space in readiness for the opening of the Welland Ship Canal in 1930. The elevator being erected will be able to unload up-lake vessels at the rate of 1,000,000 bushels daily and load St. Lawrence river boats at the same speed. Images of connecting railway tracks can be loaded on four tracks at the same time.

Both Montreal and Vancouver, Canada's two first grain shipping ports, are two leaders in this respect on the North American continent, created new grain shipping records in 1928, handling between them approximately 308,000,000 bushels. Nevertheless, active preparations are under way for yet greater traffic. In the last year capacity at the port of Montreal increased to a total of 15,000,000 bushels and that of Vancouver to 10,700,000 bushels. Both ports plan further additions in the present year. Saint John, which has likewise been expanding a record grain season, has called for tenders for the construction of a 1,500,000-bushel elevator. On the Pacific Coast a million-bushel elevator at Victoria and one at New Westminster recently commenced operations. In all parts of Canada preparations are being made for a steady increase in the flow of grain out of the country.

Starvation Takes Toll Of Bodily Functions

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the most peculiar of the notions promoted by food faddists, and physical culturists is the idea of starvation as good treatment for all disease.

At a meeting of the Medical Society of London recently several of the leading physicians of England considered the question of fasting in relationship to human health.

When food is held from the body, the whole chemistry of the system is promptly changed. The fat of the body is drawn on to supply energy, weight is lost, the blood pressure falls, the temperature is modified, and men-fasting clears the blood, but scientific studies indicate instead that during fasting there is a rise in the protein nitrogen of the blood, a decrease in the chloride and an increase in bicarbonates.

Long fasts are dangerous and even obesity, nervous diseases, pernicious anemia and diarrhea were frequent and convalescence from disease was slower.

Actually even the digestive diseases increased greatly during the starvation period, not only because the food intake was diminished, but because the food taken was rougher in character.

Below London is a natural underground reservoir of water stretching about thirty miles north and south of the city and the same distance east and west.

Sage Tea Puts Color in Gray Hair

By LOIS PAIGE

A brew of common garden sage tea and sulphur has the power to restore grey or faded hair to full life and color. You can either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready to use. The name of the prepared article is Wey's Sage & Sulphur, and since it costs only 75c a bottle at any drug-store, there is really no need to go to the bother of preparing it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. Done at night, morning sees the grey gone; another application or two and your hair is once again of the color and lustre of youth and you appear years younger. The whole effort is one of perfect naturalness.

SAANICH ASKS TERMS OF CITY

High School Tuition By Victoria Will Be Asked For Senior Students

The Saanich School Board will ask the Victoria School Board if High School students of Saanich, in second and third years, can be accommodated after next June, and also what will be the cost per capita.

At a special meeting held last night at Royal Oak, the decision was deferred upon a proposal to ask the council to submit a by-law for $72,500 to the ratepayers. Trustee Fyvie was absent and action was delayed to attain discussion by the full board.

Chairman Hobbs was emphatic in support of the necessity of asking for a by-law forthwith, pointing out that the onus of failure to provide adequately for Saanich students would otherwise rest with the School Board. "We failed to ask for an extension of time for submission of extraordinary estimates. That technicality enables the council to refuse the by-law. If we do not ask submission to the ratepayers of a by-law, that also may be thrown up against us and we will have to shoulder the onus when dissatisfied parents complain of make-shift arrangements," Chairman Hobbs warned.

TEMPORARY CLASSES

Trustees Brooks and Jeune considered temporary arrangements to be advisable for first year high school students, and continuance of second and third year students at Victoria.

Trustee Jeune said many leading citizens had favored that course, and Trustee Brooks was certain no by-law could pass while secession is a possibility.

Trustee Tomes agreed that submission of a by-law at January would have stronger support, believing that the council and leading citizens would rally to the measure at the annual elections, while submission of a by-law at this time would meet with influential opposition.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Attendance to be provided for was estimated by Municipal Inspector Peterson to be 150 new entrants and forty-two repeaters, a total of 192 first year students. Victoria would be expected to accommodate 170 pupils taking second and third year courses.

Election Trend In Britain Is Address Topic

Major Desmond Chapman-Huston Addresses Canadian Club Here

"Come to us in England and bring to our fires your new word. Let us come to see you and let us kindle a great flame of British patriotism—a great flame of brotherliness."

This was the thought expressed in the closing words of Major Desmond Chapman-Huston, well-known British author and lecturer, who addressed the Men's Canadian Club at luncheon here yesterday.

Major Chapman-Huston took as his subject, "Political Conditions in Britain at the Present Time," and in a comprehensive survey, told of the various angles from which the major parties were approaching the forthcoming general election.

"I have for many years been interested in politics," said Major Chapman-Huston in his introduction. "In fact, I was born in politics—I was born in Ireland."

What may happen in the forthcoming British election, it would be necessary to look back into the political history, he said, outlining Premier Baldwin's rise to prominence through the election of 1924. Baldwin's decision on tariff reform, requested by the extremists in the party had turned out wisely, as another general election showed.

When the Labor Government took office following this election, the great Liberal party had been smashed to atoms through the bargain its leader made to support the Labor party, he said.

The capitalists and employers had been frightened by Asquith's decision to support Labor. Thus the three points to be considered when thinking of the coming election were the mistakes of Baldwin in going to the country on tariff reform, of Asquith in supporting Labor, and of Ramsay MacDonald in thinking British people would for one minute stand dictation from foreigners, he said, referring in the last instance to Russian influence.

Attempts of Spain, Holland and France to dictate the internal policy of England in times past had met with failure and so would any attempts of Russia through the Labor party, as it had already done.

PARTY SMASHED

Major Chapman-Huston referred to the disastrous effect of the recent coal strike upon the British coal export trade, pointing out how it had built the coal industry on the continent.

"In the United States, there is a general feeling of pessimism regarding Britain's future," he said. "I will endeavor to show you there is no cause for this."

In this connection, the speaker outlined the devastating effect of the war upon England's trade, her industries and her general economic life.

MERCANTILE TRADE

Before the war, the greater part of the mercantile trade by sea belonged to Britain and now she had to fight for every bit of it.

Pensions for soldiers, introduction of an eight-hour day for labor, raising of the standard of living by improvement of social services, every direction and increase of widows' pensions were some of the things done to help the English people since the war, he said.

THE "DOLE"

Major Chapman-Huston declared that the "dole" was something to which there was nothing corresponding in British life to-day. The conception of the unemployment situation in England as a whole was one which had arisen in the United States and Canada.

He went on to explain how the unemployment fund is built up, defending the policy in the light that it was an insurance plan. The employed person, the employer and the Government each paid up one-third of the money for the fund. Thus when persons became unemployed, they were entitled to draw unemployment "pay." The regulations governing this fund were, however, very stringent, he pointed out.

RE-HOUSING

"Our soldiers were promised land fit for heroes to live on," he continued, "but they did not want that. They wanted land fit for ordinary human beings. And we have endeavored to do this by re-housing nearly one-third of the population."

"What else have we done? We have paid our debt."

This statement was greeted with applause, and the speaker went on to discuss the financial rebuilding of Great Britain.

Since the war, moreover, the country's trade had been built up to between 75 per cent and 80 per cent of the pre-war total. It had been a steady and gradual growth.

UNEMPLOYMENT

"The United States has far too much sense to fill its windows with rotten apples," he said, referring once more to unemployment. Britain published monthly its number of unemployed, and it seemed as if there was no unemployment in the world except in Britain. But, he asked, was it not true that there were unemployed in every country, and the pro rata unemployment in several countries was, indeed, as high as in Great Britain?

"Now, turning to the election, you will probably ask me which party is going to win. Let us investigate this. The three parties have recently made three grave mistakes, as I have shown you. Whether they will hit the nail right this time, is hard to fathom."

But, he continued, we must consider the ladies. But, if you think I am going to tell you what will happen to the ladies in this election, you are mistaken. The best thing they can do is to vote like their fathers, husbands or brothers.

"I don't think they will be a dominating factor in the election."

On Friday evening at the Institute Hall, Brentwood, Lignel Taylor gave a well attended lecture on South Africa, where he lived for several years. Personal experience and illustrations with excellent lantern slides, the lecture was under the auspices of South Saanich Women's Auxiliary of

NATIVE SONS HEAR FACTOR

J. J. Johnston, New Westminster, Urges Preservation of B.C. Timber

The magnificent stands of timber on Vancouver Island and the Mainland are a national asset and should, where practicable, be preserved, stated J. J. Johnston of New Westminster, grand-father of the Native Sons of British Columbia, at the regular meeting held at the S.O.E. Hall, Broad Street, last evening.

The speaker praised Victoria posts for their work in connection with the original Craigflower School and other historic sites.

J. L. Sangster, of New Westminster, grand secretary, spoke briefly. The annual grand post convention will be held at Vancouver on April 26. The meeting paid standing tribute to memory of the late W. A. Lorimer, whose death recently removed an active member of the order.

Presentation To Lodge Official

A.O.U.W., Honor A. J. Clunk For Thirty-six Years' Service

Last week about twenty members of Western Star Lodge, No. 7, A.O.U.W., paid a surprise visit to A. J. Clunk of Marigold, a charter member of No. 7 and financial secretary since 1893, and on behalf of the officers and members presented him with a beautiful mahogany eight-day Westminster Chime mantle clock as a token of their appreciation of his thirty-six years' faithful services. F. Curtis, Master Workman, in making the presentation spoke in very high terms of the good and willing work done by Mr. Clunk, who on retiring from office after thirty-six years has set a record of holding an office not only in the A.O.U.W. but in many other fraternal societies.

Mr. Clunk, who is a popular member of that lodge in Victoria West.

In 1912 Mr. Clunk sponsored a sick benefit branch under the supervision of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia. Realizing the importance of financial assistance when sickness occurred, the lodge then "fraternal" members left no stone unturned in making this branch of the order a success.

After nearly thirty-eight years service with the C.P.R. as car inspector in Victoria and being retired in 1928, he resigned his position as financial secretary and moved to Marigold to raise poultry. "A number of years ago he was an active and popular member of the Western Star Amateur Dramatic Society and will be remembered by many for his efficient rendering of character parts."

Western Star Lodge having met in Semple's Hall since being organized in 1892 and later in Stanley's Hall, Victoria West, will in the future meet in the K. of C. Hall on Government Street in co-operation with Victoria Lodge No. 1 and Vancouver Lodge No. 5 and by dispensation granted by the Grand Master Workman of the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

VALUE OF DOUGLAS FIR IS STRESSED

J. B. Alexander Points Out Its Superiority For Structural Purposes

Value of Douglas fir as structural timber was emphasized by J. B. Alexander, president of the Dominion Forest Products Laboratory at Vancouver, in an address last night under the auspices of the Victoria branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Good structural fir is stronger in cross-bending and in end compression than good structural steel, the speaker declared. Moreover, it takes varnish and paint and enamel well, permits quick and easy remodeling, is a poor conductor of heat, sound and electricity and absorbs shocks better than any other structural material.

The speaker discussed the actual structure of timber, describing the rings of growth, timber defects and building codes were also discussed by Mr. Alexander.

F. G. Aldous, A.M.E.I.C., acted as chairman of the meeting.

Rope Trick of India Exposed

Sergeant Secrett, in New Book, Says India Fakirs Use Hypnotism

London (By Mail).—Everybody has heard of the Indian rope trick, but is there anybody—any white man at least—who can declare he has actually seen the trick done? The trick referred to, of course, is when an Indian conjurer throws a rope in the air. It seems to remain suspended. A boy climbs up—and vanishes. Some years ago a British newspaper discussed this fully and while it had plenty of Anglo-Indian correspondents who knew all about the trick, and some had heard of plenty of people who were supposed to have seen it, yet nobody would declare he had himself been a witness. Interest in the subject is likely to be reawakened by a curious story told by Sergeant Secrett in his book, just published, "Twenty-five Years With Earl Haig." For that period Secrett was the late field marshal's personal attendant. He served him thus in South Africa, in India, right through the World War and to within a short time of his death.

One evening in India, Secrett was riding with Sir Douglas Haig, and on coming to a clearing they found a fakir, with a huge crowd of natives around him. The fakir uncrolled a long rope and stood up. "I DESIRED TO SEE TRICK," Secrett, he's going to do the much-disputed rope trick, I believe," said Sir Douglas. "Come along, we must have a look at this." "We drew in near to the crowd and the attention of the hearers was immediately diverted to the British general," continues the book. "The fakir seemed to be offended and at once began to pack up his 'props.' Sir Douglas asked him to continue, but he refused, mumbling something about the necessity of everybody seeing all the parts of the 'miracle.' Sir Douglas was still thinking about the rope trick when we got near the station at which we were staying, for, as the horses walked up a rather steep incline, he turned to me and said: 'I believe we just missed that show. Secrett, I wonder if it is that these chaps are reluctant to demonstrate the trick to Europeans.'"

"I don't believe there's a man living, sir," I replied, "who can make an ordinary rope stand up on its end and send a boy up on it, the only soldiers I've ever heard tell the story are noted for a bit of romancing."

AT BUNGALOW "Late that evening, after dinner and just before the sun went down, the fakir arrived. He brought a piece of rope with him. It stood at a junction of roads and was occupied by a major in charge of a cavalry detachment. "The fakir saluted before the party and suggested he should entertain them. They at once consented and the performance began. He produced an eagle from a matchbox, plucked from parrots' eggs, and did a few other clever bits of conjuring. Then, from the end of a powder-flask of old-fashioned design, he produced the boy. Where the boy had been, goodness only knows. Certainly the old fakir was a perfectly marvelous conjurer. I was not able to watch the whole performance, as I had to keep going backward and forward. The major's head man was ill and I acted as butler. "I saw the fakir insisted upon the party leaving the veranda to watch part of his performance. They sat on cushions in a circle around him. I watched from a window. I saw the old fellow make the round of his circle several times, then I saw him uncroll his rope. He moved once more round the circle and then, pointing upward with one hand, shot the rope into the air with the other. "ALL HYPNOTIZED "Sir Douglas and the others sat with their eyes turned upwards. Then the boy was brought forward and the old fakir mumbled something. His audience now turned their eyes on the boy, who stood on the ground. The fakir slowly and gently moved his hand upwards and the audience followed his hand with their eyes. He seemed to be giving instructions to the boy and addressing the spot where his eyes rested—ever upward. "Then the whole thing dawned on me. He had mesmerized his audience including my master! I went out at once. 'The boy is still on the ground, sir,' I shouted, 'and the rope fell the moment he threw it up!'"

"For a second the fakir's attention was taken off the audience and the imaginary rope, and in that second all four seemed to come out of the spell, or whatever it was he had woven round them. "But here is the remarkable thing. Although I saw the whole incident with my eyes it was quite a long time before Haig would really believe his eyes had deceived him. The major had heard of the identical experience before and was exceedingly glad that I had interrupted in the middle of the trick, or else, he said, he would have been prepared to swear he had seen the trick performed. "The old fakir was immensely angry with me—naturally! That night as I slept I thought I heard a footstep on the balcony outside. The least sound always woke me, and I was up in a shot and had the shutters open. But no one was there. Nevertheless, never having been prone to fancy things which did not exist, I stayed awake for awhile. I knew there had been a footstep—certainly that was true, and I was just a little curious to know who was prowling about at that hour of night."

VIPER IN ROOM "The moonbeam cut through the slats in the shutter and I lay watching the shadow on the floor made by the intercepted light. As I lay, suddenly I saw the color of the shape of the moonbeam change at a place near my camp bed. "I switched on my flash lamp. There, coming towards my head, was a viper, his wicked little eyes glinting in the light. As I moved he raised his head, but snakes were not new to me. I took the blow from under my head and held it between the snake and myself while I leapt out of bed and seized my revolver. The snake had turned and was definitely making for me. I did not wait to fire a revolver. If I could help it, because that would disturb the household, and yet, not having a stick, I did not see what else I was going to do. "My eye caught a couple of crossed kukri knives on the wall, and still facing the snake, the revolver in my

LLOYD GEORGE SCORES LABOR

Says MacDonald Government of Britain Built Cruisers at Wrong Time

Boston, Lincolnshire, Eng., March 21 (By George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press)—Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, last night struck out at Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald. He charged that in laying down five "unnecessary cruisers" during the term of the MacDonald Government, the Labor Party had started the provocative competition which had resulted in the proposed building of fifteen cruisers by the United States. "Mr. Lloyd George quoted a statement by Mr. MacDonald that Labor was the only party definitely out of peace. "What an extraordinary statement," he said. "And what a bad outlook for peace. This man, the only friend of peace, said down five armored cruisers—a provocation to the richest country on earth, the United States, which then began building its cruisers. So it has gone on."

PRE-WAR COMPETITION "What was it that more than anything else provoked the catastrophe of 1914? A Tory Government, when it was quite unnecessary, laid down a dreadnought. The Germans said: 'We will build a bigger one.' That competition went on until at last there was a crash that almost shattered civilization. "The Labor Party is the friend of peace. In 1924 they started the same provocative building of instruments of war when they were quite unnecessary and without anyone threatening us. And they started building against the one power, the richest on earth, with which we can ill afford to quarrel, the one power above all we ought to shake hands with and work side by side with in the interests of peace."

Mr. Lloyd George described the Labor programme as one of words, phrases and sentiments. "Why," he said, "the only schemes the Labor Government had when they were in office were initiated by their predecessors. They had not a single scheme of their own."

BALANCE OF POWER "Mr. MacDonald says I can well afford to make a pledge to reduce unemployment to normal within a year because I shall never be called upon to carry it out. Do not be too sure about that. I will tell you what I have to say about the matter. The Liberals, if they are not in a position to fulfill the pledge themselves, will be in a position in the next Parliament to make others fulfill it. That is why I made the pledge."

Easter Hero Favorite to Win Grand National

Sixty Horses Likely To Face Starter In Great Steeplechase

Billy Barton, Famous U.S. Jumper, Quoted at Odds of 100-7; Thousands Flock to Aintree for Historic Event and Sleep in Tents and on Billiard Tables; 350,000 People Likely to Watch Race; Rainfall To-day Will Make Course Heavy.

Aintree, Eng., March 21.—Prospects of fair weather for tomorrow's Grand National Steeplechase dimmed to-day as yesterday's drizzle developed into a regular North of England down-pour. The rain slackened this morning, however, and permitted the steeplechase candidates to take their early morning canter. Billy Barton, United States jumper, stepped along in fine spirits and sniffed with apparent pleasure the raindrops which are the first that have fallen in this part of England in more than a month.

Too much rain would not please the Maryland jumper's trainers and jockey, but the moisture which the Aintree course has received thus far is just sufficient to make the going good to-morrow.

Easter Hero, once owned by the late Captain Alfred Lownstein, is favored to-morrow at odds of 10 to 1, with Billy Barton and Great Span, British horse, quoted at 100-7 each. As many as sixty horses are likely to start.

Liverpool was crowded in anticipation of to-morrow's race. Hotels and boarding houses were filled beyond their ordinary capacity and even a billiard table to serve as a bed was at a premium last night. Bathrooms, smoking room and dining room have been turned into bed chambers, and hotelkeepers declared they could do no more to accommodate the increasing demands.

Thousands of girls and women were among arrivals to-day. A number of large tents have been erected in gardens around the city so that residents can increase the accommodation for friends. Lovers due to Aintree for the first time are expected to see the crowd with numbers of American visitors but it was not known where or how they would be put up.

Preparations were being made at Aintree for an attendance of 350,000.

World's Mark Is Equalled By Williams

Vancouver Sprinter Captures 60-Yard Dash at Hamilton in 6 1-5 Seconds

Paavo Nurmi Gives Beautiful Exhibition; Canadian Relay Team Pressed

Hamilton, March 21.—Percy Williams, Vancouver sprinter, captured the 60-yard dash at Hamilton in 6 1-5 seconds, equalled the indoor record for the distance.

Williams was pressed by Johnny Fitzpatrick, Hamilton Olympic Club, who with Williams was a member of the Canadian Olympic team. Both got away to a good start, and Fitzpatrick held a slight lead at the forty-yard mark. Williams, however, finished with a burst of speed that has made him famous, and passed Fitzpatrick at the tape. Not more than an inch separated the two. Leigh Miller, Hamilton, finished third.

BEAUTIFUL EXHIBITION

Paavo Nurmi, Finnish runner, gave a beautiful exhibition in winning the two-mile, mile-and-a-half, and four-mile races, and stayed with the field for 400 yards. He opened them with a mercurial pace and soon gained a lap on the other contestants. His time was 22:3 1-5 nine seconds above the record. H. Webster, Hamilton Olympic Club, was second; and M. Cherkov, Monarch A.C., Toronto, third.

Phil Edwards, of New York University, won the 600-yard special run easily by six yards from Fred Veit, a fellow student. Edwards, a Canadian Olympic runner, made the distance in 1:12 2-5.

The Canadian ladies' relay team, of Toronto, established a new Dominion record in winning the 440-yard relay. Their time was 53 1-5 seconds.

Johnny Fitzpatrick won the 300-yard open event in 33 1-5 seconds. Feldman, of Buffalo, ran second and Jimmy Hall, of Winnipeg, third.

EVENING SURPRISE

The surprise of the evening came when Chet Bowman and R. W. Feldman, of Buffalo, held the Canadian flag, Williams and Fitzpatrick, evened the first two legs of the one-mile international relay.

Bowman had a slight lead on Fitzpatrick when he handed the baton to Feldman, and Williams, two-time Olympic winner, was hard pressed to catch up with the Buffalo boy. The Canadians forged to the front when they took the baton from Bowman. The time was 3:42.

McLarnin-Miller Again—By Jimmy Thompson

When Jimmy McLarnin, the little pepper pot, cashed a cheque for $10,000 as his share of the purse for licking Sid Turris, the "Galloping Ghost," he immediately jumped into the spotlight as a contender for Sammy Mandell's crown.

Since then he has broken about even in his fights. Last November he was matched with Ray Miller of Detroit, but couldn't get the route and Ray was given the decision. To-morrow night he gets a chance at the same Ray Miller and the bout has given fight fans something to talk about because when a fighter with a dangerous left faces another with a dynamite right there are bound to be fireworks.

The match has been made at 140 pounds, which is McLarnin's weight. Miller will have trouble making it, so it seems to be in McLarnin's favor.

Saturday's Cup Junior Teams Soccer Game Is Called Off

Owing to the fact that the St. Andrew's team of Vancouver have found it will be impossible to make the trip to Victoria on Saturday, the Province Cup match scheduled at the Royal Athletic Park between the Mainlanders and Esquimalt has been postponed until a later date. This announcement was made this morning by Alex Robertson.

In order to provide the fans with their regular soccer highlights the Lower Island Football Association will arrange a game.

A meeting of the Maple Leaf Football Club will be held to-night at 7:30 o'clock at 1812 Cook Street. All players are requested to attend.

Three Goals By Dawson Win Match

Promising Young Forward Gives Saanich Schools 3-1 Win Over Victoria

Saanich to Meet Winner of Oak Bay-Esquimalt Match in Finals for Cup

Scoring three goals in the second half, Horace Dawson gave the Saanich schools a 3-1 victory over Victoria in the opening for the Fragments of France Cup soccer game played at Oak Bay Park yesterday. By virtue of their win the Saanich boys will meet the winner of to-morrow's game between Oak Bay and Esquimalt. The final match will be played on Tuesday next.

Opening the game in the attack, Victoria forced the Saanich boys to their end and a minute after the first whistle, Stevens netted the ball with a hard drive on a pass from O'Neil, the outside left. The tally was the only one scored by the city school boys. Play continued in Saanich ground for several minutes with Victoria holding a decided edge. Only a few times during the half did the suburban boys break away on dangerous sorties.

SLIPPERY BALL

As the game progressed, the ball became slippery and heavy from the rain which fell during the opening minutes of the match.

Dawson, fast inside right for Saanich, scored the count five minutes after the second half opened. He secured the ball within the Victoria penalty area and booted it into the goal. Heaton, the city goalie, touched the ball but it slipped through his hands and bounced into the net from the goal post.

Saanich again put the ball into the net a few minutes later, but the goal was disallowed because the ball had previously been out of play.

SCORES AGAIN

Scarcely ten minutes after his first counter, Dawson again scored. The tricky inside right shot a hard drive that Heaton again handled but was unable to hold.

Morgan centred the ball before the game closed and Dawson headed it in to end the scoring. Heaton had no chance to save.

Although the ground became slippery and the ball was hard to handle, an exceptionally good defence by the Saanich boys kept the youngsters who fought at a fast pace until the final whistle.

WEIGHT ADVANTAGE

Saanich had a slight advantage in weight and experience over the city contenders, who nevertheless played a fighting game.

The teams were as follows: Saanich—Goal, D. Walker (Cloverdale); fullbacks, K. Kennedy (Victoria High School) and J. Williams (Cedar Hill); halfbacks, G. Mowat (Victoria High School) and J. Smith (Strawberry Vale); forwards, C. Fulton (Strawberry Vale), H. Dawson (Victoria High School), W. Smith (Strawberry Vale) and N. Morgan (Victoria High School).

Albie Davies In Fine Form

Impresses Local Fans in Preparation For Bout With Pollett of Nanaimo

The fans who attended the workout last night at the Victoria Gymnasium were very much pleased with the showing of Albie Davies in his eight rounds of boxing with Danny Pastore and Tim Keist. Davies is showing marked improvement, particularly in his ability to get in and mix it with his opponents in the give-and-take style of battling. His right-hand punches, which have been of the weak order in his recent fights, are now greatly improved and he seems to be punching with greater force than he has ever done before.

His left-hand wallop is still a little faulty, and with a little improvement in this respect, there is no reason why he should not be able to topple his opponents to the canvas for the ten-second count.

The boys will work out to-night for the last time before the fight, as Albie Davies and Tim Keist will don the gloves for a few rounds of boxing.

According to reports from Nanaimo, a large number of fans are coming down to take in the fight Saturday night. Pollett is a strong favorite with the Up-Islanders to win over the local fighter, who did not impress them with his work in the box at Nanaimo a couple of weeks ago in an exhibition bout.

Tickets for the bouts are now on sale at Two Jacks Dope, The Bull and Empire Cigar Store.

Semi-finals of Cup Competition to Hold Spotlight Saturday

Much Interest Over Important Soccer Matches in England This Week-end; Aston Villa to Meet Portsmouth at Highbury, With Bolton and Huddersfield Playing at Liverpool; Wanderers are Favored to Lift Coveted Piece of Silverware.

Saturday will witness the semi-finals in the competition for the English Cup, with Aston Villa and Portsmouth playing at Highbury, London, and Bolton Wanderers and Huddersfield Town meeting at Liverpool. These four clubs are all that remain of the nearly 600 that started their quest last September for the piece of silverware known as the English Cup.

None of the semi-finalists cleared their fences without faltering. Aston Villa topped them, Portsmouth did likewise, Bolton Wanderers deceived twice and Huddersfield appeared more shaky than any of them, because it was a Second Division obstacle at which they stumbled.

This is how they won their way into the semi-finals.

Goals for, 18; against, 5.

NOTE—The home teams in each case are printed in black letters.

Whom did there appear to be able to take the Cup? Bolton Wanderers, even a month ago? Bolton Wanderers have prevented them from enjoying any further interest in it. Although they themselves may yet prove incapable of winning it, their claim to favoritism, however, is well founded, for numbered among the winners are three teams with decidedly convincing records. Possession of valuable confidence and the experience obtained by capture of the trophy in the final between Aston Villa and Blackburn Rovers, and when both of them had won the Cup twice times equally before, are a powerful factor in the final between Bolton and Blackburn Rovers. Their castle has tumbled and they can now seek glorified repose from the trials and tribulations of another Cup contest with satisfied knowledge that they were weighed in the balance and found wanting.

BOLTON'S SUCCESS
Additional satisfaction may be forthcoming on April 27 at Wembley, for the aspirations of Bolton Wanderers to lift the trophy are just about as well justified as those of either of the other three contestants. They are the only club to have won the Cup twice since the war and their confidence this season is inspiring. An omen, too, might possibly be suggested, thus: 1925, 1926 and 1928—perhaps Bolton did not fear Leicester City's unbeaten home record, neither did they fear that of Liverpool. Before they have drawn their games away from home and each time they have brought their opponents to Burnden Park to defend their title, Bolton have shown stamina and spirit that in the replay with Liverpool at Bolton they scored three goals in extra time. Five players have scored, two Cup winning medals, played for the team that won at Leicester.

IMPORTANT TONIC

Hudson's Bay Retains Lead Over Bakers

Defeat Saanich United 5-1 and Improve Chances of Winning Soccer Title

Rennies Score 3-1 Victory
Over Navy; Mid-week Schedule Nearly Completed

Hudson's Bay greatly enhanced their chances of winning the championship of the Wednesday Football League yesterday afternoon by their 5-1 defeat over Saanich United. In the second game of the afternoon Rennie and Taylor, last year's champions, won over the Navy, 3-1.

With three games remaining on the schedule, the Bays have a four-point lead over the Bakers and look nearly a cinch to carry off the honors.

Going down before a withering attack in the second half, Saanich United limped off the field with a 5-1 defeat at the hands of Hudson's Bays, league leaders, in the Wednesday soccer fixture played at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday. In the first half, the Saanich boys worked hard and held their opponents to a single counter, but were unable to stop the storemen in the second frame.

For the first twenty minutes of the match, play was fairly evenly divided, with both teams getting in some good shots on goal. However, of the United, sent in a pretty shot that hit the crossbar and Tyson headed it back, only to have Shrimpton clear.

FIRST GOAL. After twenty-five minutes play, Cull broke through to shoot. Restall, the Saanich goalie kicked the ball out on the fly. The ball struck Moir, Saanich half, on the back and bounced into the goal. Cull got his foot to it as the ball was crossing the line for Hudson's Bay's first counter.

The United returned on an offensive rush from the centre, and their forwards got in three good shots. Shrimpton saved in each case.

Taking the ball from the second half kick-off, the Bays went down into Saanich territory and Fish scored on the rebound from Cull's shot.

Saanich retaliated with two good forward rushes, but were unable to score.

After fifteen minutes play in the second canto, Tyson broke through and passed to Tooby who netted Saanich's only tally.

Four minutes later, Woodley scored the ball near centre. He dribbled it to within thirty-five yards of the United goal and sent in a hard high shot that Restall failed to stop for the storemen's third counter.

Following an attack on their own citadel, Hudson's Bays returned to the Saanich end and netted their fourth goal from a mix-up in front of the United's posts.

Before the game closed, Cull scored again on a pass from the centre forward, to raise the count to 5-1.

Saanich tried hard to break away in the dying minutes of the game, but their forwards could not penetrate the Bay's defence and the final whistle sounded with the storemen still pressing. Hayison refereed and the teams lined up as follows:

Saanich United: Restall, Barry, Ash, Moir, Love, Stonier, Tooby, Hawkes, Blasco, Tyson and Ralph.
Hudson's Bay: Shrimpton, Gardiner, Armstrong, Oakman, Woodley, Kerchib, Addie, Fish, Hansen, Cull and Hansen.

At the Beacon Hill lower grounds the fast-moving Rennie and Taylor team took the Navy into camp by a 3-1 score. The game was played on very sloppy grounds, and although this hindered both teams the Bays seemed to be having more than their share of bad breaks.

From the starting whistle the Navy pressed, but Geddes, the bakers' goalie, was safe. Play went to the other end, and Taylor, fleet wing man, put across a perfect center, but Nex, who was in perfect position, fell and the opportunity was wasted. The bakers continued to press, and Robinson cleared a dangerous rush. Play went from end to end with nothing spectacular resulting. Taylor forced a corner, but it was cleared. The Navy carried the ball down into the enemy territory, but Geddes was safe as a bank and cleared. Followed this play stayed in centre. The ball was heavy as lead, and this made it difficult to control. Rennie's efforts were prevented with two glorious chances. The Navy goal was surrounded with horsehoes and no score resulted. Barker pulled off a good save from Taylor, and on the rebound, Tappan sent in a hot one that was about two feet out. Robinson relieved the tension with a long kick, and immediately following the whistle for half-time blew.

RENNIES SCORE
About three minutes after the rest period the bakers broke into the scoring column when Hagen beat Barker for the first tally of the game. Following this reverse the Navy tried hard, but the odds were against them. Robinson had a good chance but shot wide, and not long afterwards Rennie was awarded a penalty when he was fouled in the penalty area. Plater took the kick and made no mistake.

This seemed to take the heart from the Navy, and less than ten minutes later Rennie once again scored. Robinson had a good chance but shot wide, and not long afterwards Rennie was awarded a penalty when he was fouled in the penalty area. Plater took the kick and made no mistake.

N.H.L. Teams Will Resume Play-off Struggle To-night

Toronto Only Club to Gain Any Advantage in Opening Games of Series; Meet Detroit To-night With Two-goal Advantage and Are Heavy Favorites to Win; New York Rangers and Americans Will Take Ice After Scoreless Deadlock in Opening Battle; Boston Meets Canadiens With One-game Advantage.

Toronto, March 21—The battle of the hockey play-offs takes up again to-night where it left off Tuesday with very little accomplished in the way of deciding which teams are to enter the next round. Boston again is the scene of the second game of the series between the Bruins and Canadiens, the first-place winners in their divisions.

New York's two second-place teams, the Rangers and Americans, will continue to play their struggle out in Madison Square Garden for even one goal, while Detroit becomes the guest in the third-place play-off, going to Toronto for the second game.

Whipped Heeney

Here's Otto Von Porat, young Norwegian heavyweight, who easily defeated Tom Heeney recently at Chicago in a ten-round bout. Von Porat, showing great boxing skill, won as he pleased, and his victory must be given great consideration among the more prominent heavyweights.

Hamilton, Ont., March 21—Hamilton Tigers defeated the London Panthers 3-2 in the last scheduled Canadian Professional Hockey fixture of the season here last night.

Fort Erie, Ont., March 21—Buffalo practically passed out of the Canadian Professional Hockey League picture here last night when they lost to Windsor, 2-1. Unless the Niagara Falls tie or defeat Kitchener here Friday night, Buffalo will be the fourth team in the playoffs.

Minneapolis, March 21—In the first game of the American Association Hockey playoffs here last night, Minneapolis defeated St. Paul, 3-1. This was the first of a four-game series, winner to meet Tulsa for the association championship.

Philadelphia, March 21—Boston and Philadelphia battled to a 1-1 overtime tie in a Canadian-American League hockey game here last night. A victory would have clinched first place for Boston.

Miller, decidedly handicapped in the weights is endeavoring to build himself up to 133 pounds, while McLarnin, growing steadily, is hard put to stay below the welterweight division. The Irish punching star from Vancouver intends to fight in the future as a full-fledged 147-pounder.

Miller, a left-hand puncher from Chicago, scored a technical knockout over McLarnin in the seventh round of their recent bout in Detroit.

The Garden, seating 20,000, has been sold out for several days.

After the match the arena will be closed to boxing for five weeks, while the circus comes to town for its annual stay.

Joliet Team Leads

In Bowling Tourney

Chicago, March 21.—The Hub Recreation team of Joliet, Illinois, topped 2,063 pins to grasp the lead in the five-man event of the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday. It was the first time the 3,000 mark had been passed during the tourney.

The Joliet team scored 1,002, 464 and 1,077.

The score gave it a lead of 129 pins over the Triangle State Bank of Chicago, the former leaders.

Rolling up a total of 1,302 pins, Geo. Geiser and Joe Lellinger of Chicago moved their way to the top of the doubles division yesterday.

Their score topped the previous high score, recorded by J. Riley and H. Lemke of Kansas City, by one point.

It was easily the high spot of a rather dead day at the tourney.

O. Korbus and K. N. Muzevic, also of Chicago, went into third place in the doubles with a score of 1,269.

Only one change was made in the singles yesterday. M. Cook of Chicago counted 667 to grab eighth place. Jess Davis, another Chicago pinster, clung to his lead in that event with 723 pins.

In the all events, W. O'Donnell, Kansas City, was still high with 1,800. Joe Falcaro, New York, was second with 1,676.

METAL PRICE RISE INCREASES SMELTERS PROFITS $5,000,000

Montreal, March 21.—International Nickel went to a four-point spread under Noranda today. For some time the two stocks have been going up at an even pace, with one going up with the other. To-day, however, when Nickel was selling at $6.50, Noranda was selling at $6.25.

Nickel broke from yesterday's close at $6.00 to $5.75, while Noranda climbed, in company with most of the other copper stocks.

In addition, it was reported that Noranda-to-day cut new ore at the 1.50 cent level.

Montreal, March 21.—The annual meeting of International Nickel in Toronto was adjourned until April 19 to allow the old preference shares and common shares to be turned in and exchanged for $100,000 of the Canadian company. This is a comparatively small matter as the great majority were exchanged some time ago.

NORANDA EARNINGS
Montreal, March 21.—(By B.C. Bond).—Unofficial reports place Noranda's February production at $1,000,000 for the twenty-eight day period and for the figure should be increased to over $1,000,000 in March. Of this total, gold production accounted for $100,000 and the copper was taken at a price of 10 cents.

Last year the smelter treated 271,278 tons of ore, as stated by the president. The cost of changes and additions to the smelter were all charged to operation, so that it is a certainty that the present costs per ton are away below the average for 1928.

FAMOUS PLAYERS PLANS
In the light of current market conditions, it was not surprising that the response was made to the fine months' earnings shown by Famous Players. From Toronto there comes the announcement of the industrial theatre which the corporation will build there. It will be the largest theatre in this country and the building will include shops. It is understood that in the course of a year or so the company plans to build another large theatre in this city.

Montreal, March 21.—(By B.C. Bond).—Despite all the good Canadian news and the strong business and industrial situation, the industrial market here continues sluggish. The credit situation is blamed for holding the market down, while the big volume of speculation has been going into the curb issues, where heavy stock operations are not required to finance operations.

Improvement in base metal prices is increasing the earnings of Consolidated Mining and Smelting at the rate of nearly $5,000,000 annually. It is estimated that since the end of the year the price of lead has increased by $20 a ton and copper is up $15 a ton in the last few days. That the lower range of metal prices was the major handicap to Consolidated was stated by the company about a month ago, when issuing a preliminary statement of earnings for the year. It was recorded that operations were proceeding satisfactorily. It was also stated that metal prices have improved since the turn of the year and promise further appreciation. The metal markets have shown decided strength during the present week and, according to current trade reports, base metals are practically all trending upwards.

How entirely Dominion Bridge stock has suffered from a general slack market condition can be judged from the fact that the company at the present time is understood to enjoy practically a full book of orders and interests in close touch with the affairs of the company suggest that the company is finding difficulty in taking additional business at the present time. The company has never in its history been in so fine a position to handle business in such great volume, due to acquisitions of new plants and extensive expansion and improvements in various plants.

The financial report of the Howard Smith Paper Mills for 1928 is expected to make its appearance in 1929 or so and will be the first statement issued since the control of the company was obtained by the Holt-Gundy interests. The present company was organized in May last year. Earnings on the present outstanding 200,000 shares of no par value common stock for the last year are variously estimated about the street at between $2 and $2 per share. Operations of the company are understood to be running at a high level.

Smart Doings Of Animals

Finicky Cat Fells Cook on Diet.

Kate Sanborn had a friend who owned a black Persian cat of extreme craft named Prin.

The Persian refused to eat any meat except roast, stewed, or boiled meat, was firmly rejected by him.

The cook decided to break him of his disagreeable trait. Accordingly, she put only stewed or boiled meat in his saucer, and when he spurned this food, refused to substitute fish or roast for it.

On the fourth morning the cook rejoiced mightily, for the cat's saucer was empty.

Prin purred affectionately around her skirts, and, thinking she had conquered, she gave him a splendid dinner of roast that day.

But on Saturday night, cleaning out a closet, she was suddenly enlightened. In one of the stowaways she found the stewed meat she supposed Prin had eaten.

At the last census between 900,000 and 1,000,000 people in London were living overcrowded to the extent of more than two to a room, and of these close on 150,000 lived more than three to a room.

Before the coming of the oil lamp lighthouses were lit by candles or coal fires. The last of the latter was the lighthouse at St. Bees, where a coal light burned until 1822.

Geese have been known to live for forty years.

Sour Stomach

Sweetened instantly

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is all. Alkaline, effective yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant, efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

U.S. World Court Plan Is Now Studied

Washington, March 21.—The final wording of the modified Root formula for adherence of the United States to the World Court is arousing some controversy among the American people.

Their concern centers in private expressions of discontent with the proposal made in circles which were opposed to adherence when the question was before the Senate three years ago.

A vigorous fight was made at that time, and as the new proposal requires action by the Senate, such expressions emphasize the possibility of a renewal of the controversy. Revival of the opposition to acceptance of the modified formula, leaders admit, might permanently block the way for entry of the United States into the court.

The Bible, printed in Braille for blind readers, occupies seventy-four volumes.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Spring Song

Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Awakening one morning from a sweet sleep in his hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggily looked at a calendar on the wall and saw that it was Thursday, March 21, as you can see for yourself.

"Heigh ho!" whistled the rabbit gentleman in a jolly, carefree manner. "I feel fine this morning! I wonder why I have so much pep? It must be the spring. He looked at the calendar again and saw, printed on it a little verse which said:

"March the twenty-first is Spring. The little birds begin to sing!"

Out of bed jumped the rabbit. To the window he leaped and opened it wider, for loving fresh air, Uncle Wiggily always slept with his window partly open. He stuck out one ear. Then he heard the sound of "Cheep-Cheep" and also: "Yip! Yip!"

"Ha! The little birds are singing! It must be Spring, and how glad I am!" cried Mr. Longears. "I have heard enough of Winter. Now the good old Summer-time will soon be here with blue skies and green fields and I will hop all over in patches of clover!"

And Uncle Wiggily felt so very gay that he began to sing. At least he thought he was singing. But pretty soon from the room below came pounding knocks on his floor and he called out:

"What's the matter?"

"That's just what I was going to ask you," spoke the voice of Mrs. Longears. "What are you doing?"

"Singing my Spring song," answered Uncle Wiggily with a laugh.

"Your—your what?" asked the rabbit lady curiously.

"My Spring song!" spoke Uncle Wiggily modestly.

road, and before we're done we'll do something worth while. Just you wait and see!"

Freeland was quite willing to wait and see, and had very little doubt as to the ultimate destiny of these two gallant souls, equipped with faith in God and one another. He had already, in a vision, seen Mary's man on the floor of the house, advocating unpopular, if not lost, causes, pulling his whole weight against extravagance, irresponsibility, injustice and narrow vision before his eyes, and something told him it would be realized.

"What are you going to do in the meantime, stop on at Mardock's with the folk?" he asked, without having given voice to the wonderful imaginings which rose up to guide what to most men and women would have savored of disaster.

"No, as soon as Geoffrey comes back from sea, we're going over to Granny's to quarter ourselves as paying guests."

"Why Granny's? There's room and to spare near by."

"Yes, but Granny will help, and Geoffrey loves her. You haven't seen them together. It's the most beautiful thing in the world. We shall get our cue from Granny. She has commerce with high heaven, daddy, she never makes a mistake."

About half an hour later, from an upper window in the warehouse above the offices, Freeland watched them swinging along the path by the Basin towards the cottage on the brim of the Filder.

There was no lagging in their young footsteps, nor any hint of either sharp or lingering regret. His lips parted in a queer half-smile as he watched them. He loved them well, and envied them, for they were care-free and the whole of life was in front, beckoning them to the shining heights of endeavor, achievement, hopes that might reach the stars.

Untrammelled, they would compass these heights, and those who were left down in the little valleys would watch them, and see them, and think they might reach the stars.

"I suppose these extraordinary creatures have talked you over, Bob? Did you ever see the like of them? To hear and see them, you would think they had come into a fortune instead of having lost one. What do you think of the situation? I've been arguing with Geoffrey that his cousin should settle a substantial income on them, but he just looked me straight in the face with those silly blue eyes of his, and asked why I wanted rather badly to box his ears."

Freeland laughed.

"He'll take money from no man, mother, and we'll have to leave them to their own devices."

"But you'll have to settle something on Mary, unless you want to see them starve, Bab. Oh, you and they together make me tired!"

"I don't do it, come when she needs. They're not bairns, Harriet, but I'll be much mistaken if they ever need anything free either you or me."

"He's got no one, but a handful of bees in his bonnet—talks of going out to serve humanity, and stuff of that kind," cried Harriet, growing warmer.

"He'll do it, too. They're not needing either our advice or our pity, Harriet. They're the happiest man and wife I've ever seen, and the richest."

"I declare you are every bit as bad as they are, Bob! What's the use of blinking the facts? If you come to put it down in black and white, they are paupers."

"I mind reading something in a poetry book a while ago, Harriet. It said something like this:

"This man is freed from servile bands Of hope to rise or fear to fall; Lord of himself, though not of lands And having nothing, yet hath all."

When Harriet did not reply he then looked over his shoulder towards the door, and remarked in a level voice:

"The ladies are late with the tattles today, surely."

THE OLD ORDER CHANGES

By DAVID LYALL

She was gone even as she spoke, bareheaded, with a stormy something at the back of her eyes which had so often lurked there in the days of stress, when her will and outlook had come into sharp conflict with her mother's. She found the two men in close converse, and though their faces were grave, they lightened at sight of her.

Freeland stretched out an understanding hand.

"Come away, lass," he said kindly. She nodded, and dropped her hand on her husband's shoulder.

"Go to mother, Geoffrey, and talk—talk for all you're worth! She'll maybe listen to you; she's through with me."

Geoffrey went, and Mary closed the door. Then, forgetful of the passage of the years, of all excepting the fact that here was sanctuary for womanhood, as it had been in childhood, she sat down on her father's knee, and, hiding her face, began to cry. Not noisily or stormily, but quietly, as a great deep might flow when the floodgates were suddenly unlocked.

"Never mind; lass, there, there, we're wifely! There might be waur things than losing a big house and a great estate."

These words dried Mary's tears much quicker than anything could have done. "Oh, dad, I'm not crying about that," she asserted scornfully. "But just, well, just because I felt like it. I suppose things had piled up. But we don't mind, not a scrap, about Henry Manning coming home; in fact, we're glad of it. Hasn't Geoffrey convinced you of that by now?"

"Oh, yes, he's all right, and not bothering his head—I must say he is taking what to most men would be a very keen disappointment—very well. But, all the same, it's to make a difference. You'll have a man with his way to make now, lass, instead of just walking beside him on a good made road that other folk have trodden flat and easy for your feet."

Mary flung up her head with a sudden joyance, rose to her feet, and stood steadily thereon.

"That's the thing! I'm more glad about it than anything, dad. The road was too well trodden at Mardock's, and it was going to give us grey hair to make anything different, even for the folk—I could see that it was not the work for a whole, strong, sound man like my Geoffrey, for when the houses were ready, and the folk in them, and the thing moving in a regular routine, what would have become of me? He's a pioneer, father, a builder, and we'll go somewhere where there is room and material to build."

"He can come in here, Mary. I've told him that."

"I guessed you'd do something of that sort, but I think it will not be that road we'll gang," she said with a little whimsical smile. "You're not going to worry about me, dad, nor let mother worry. We'll find a place, if not in the sun, at least on the open

THE ANYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Before their little car could roll, the Tintles had to shovel coal, so they all promptly set to work, as speedy as they could. The tiny shovels that they had held quite a bit, and it was sad how hard the Tintles had to work. It didn't seem so good.

"Aw, shucks!" wailed Cappy. "What bad luck! Of course we had to all get stuck. This being under ground's no fun. I'd rather be outside." And then he thought, and said, "Oh, dear! It's my fault that we came in here. To probe this cave is something that I never should have tried."

"Oh, well, what is the difference now," said Scouty. "We'll get by somehow. Just keep on with your shovel. This is work, you know, not play. We'll have to keep it up. I fear, until the track is nice and clear, or otherwise we never will get out of here to-day." And so they labored very fast until

Wee Cappy cried, "At last the track is clear, and we can leave upon our trip again."

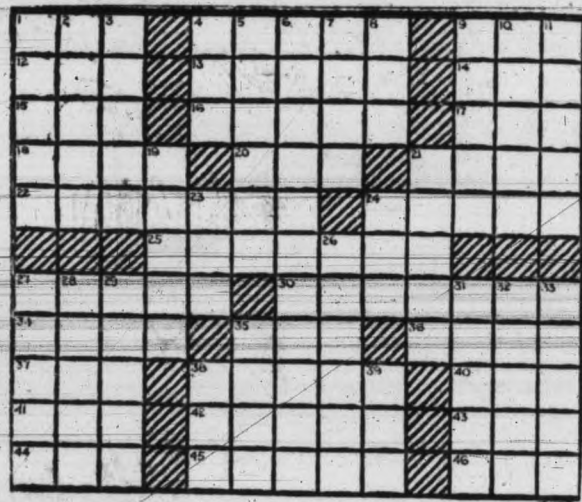

A coal man then said, "It's too bad the coal all fell, but now we're glad that you have cleared it up so fine. This happens now and then."

Two Tintles pushed the car once more and soon a big treat was in store. A stream of light came through the mine. Twas coming from above. "Oh, look!" cried Cappy. "Here's a rope that leads up there and I just hope that if we tie it to this car we will not have to shove."

They fixed the rope into a groove and then the car began to move right up a little hillway. Cappy shouted, "This is fine!" Up, up they went until at last their troubles in the cave were past. "Hurrah!" cried Scouty. "We are now outside the crazy mine."

To-morrow's Horoscope

Good and evil planetary aspects contend to-day, according to astrology, which finds a benefic aspect strong in the morning.

Women are especially well directed while this configuration prevails and should push all their important interests.

It is read as a lucky way for becoming engaged to marry since there is likely to be enduring, although money may be more or less elusive.

Warning is given that the voice for what is bizarre is passing in favor of long-established standards of beauty and artistry. The curve is replacing the angle in the human form as well as in other forms of supposed beauty.

The adverse way to-day takes hold of the mind, destroying its confidence and preventing its initiative.

Whatever has to do with logic or analysis suffers from this rule which increases the emotional rather than the scientific trend of thought.

Shopping should be lucky under this way which encourages a desire to acquire what is suitable and artistic.

It is well to be cautious regarding deals in which fraud may be easily practiced as to-day there is an aspect supposed to encourage deceit and treachery.

Although this may not be an auspicious day for beginning a long journey all the planetary signs seem to preface great increase in ship-circles especially among women tourists.

Persons whose birthday it is have the luxury of a year in which much is gained through friendship. Business problems may be peculiarly troublesome.

Children born on this day probably will be of artistic ambitions and will have a decided liking for the theatre. These Places-Aries subjects who are on the map often have unusual literary ability and incline to sacrifice sure rewards for uncertainties of authorship.

KENT MAY BE FLOATED SOON

First Attempt Will Be Made To-morrow; Pilot Called to Take Ship South Saturday

Vancouver, March 21.—Work of salvage of the freighter A. L. Kent, on a reef in Johnstone Strait, is proceeding satisfactorily, under the direction of the Pacific Salvage Company operators, according to Commander B. L. Johnson, R.N.R., D.S.O., Lloyd's agent for British Columbia, who returned this morning from the scene of the wreck. Commander Johnson states that the deck and half of the underdeck cargo of lumber is being discharged, and that every confidence is felt the ship will be floated safely late this week. The attempt may be made on Friday, and the ship taken to Seattle for drydocking and repairs. A Vancouver pilot has been called for to take the ship south on Saturday.

It is expected that the Dominion wreck commissioner will hold an inquiry into the accident.

WORK RAPIDLY PROGRESSING ON MAIN LINE

Vancouver, March 21.—After having made a brief inspection of the company's British Columbia main line, where the season's work is commencing, C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent of the B.C. district of the Canadian Pacific Railway returned here today.

He stated that due to the heavy programme arranged, working forces are being considerably increased, while already the ballasting and steel laying gangs are at work. It is the policy of the company to start its spring work immediately weather conditions permit, resulting in considerable relief being felt in the unemployment situation at the coast. During the last week the company has given employment to over 300 men in Vancouver, while many more will be taken on as the work progresses.

Many contracting firms in the West are now engaged in outfitting, and will be out on their specialized work shortly. There is a great quantity of labor that is better handled by out-firms, although the district does not eliminate the hiring of local employees, which they arrange themselves. Not only does the railway's work provide employment for a large number of men from the larger cities, but they also absorb almost all available labor along the countryside, and it is an activity that is being looked forward to more and more each year.

Mr. Cotterell stated that a very large programme of work will be undertaken this year, made necessary by the heavy increase in westbound traffic to the port of Vancouver, and also to maintain the company's policy to be well up with the times.

rules of railroading, resulted in the two first-class steel-equipped trains meeting with a terrific impact on the northwest stretch of road forty miles from the larger cities, but they also absorb almost all available labor along the countryside, and it is an activity that is being looked forward to more and more each year.

When the crash came the engine and baggage cars of the trains were telescoped, while a locomotive car on the Winnipeg bound train burst into flames. It was to the occupants of that car that death dealt the heaviest blow, a number being burned to death, some before the eyes of helpless trainmen and passengers who rushed to their aid. Victims were burned beyond recognition and railway officials doubt whether identification will be possible.

It is possible the number traveling in that coach who lost their lives may never be known as they were believed to include several immigrants traveling to Western destinations.

ALL INFORMATION ASKED

The Federal Railway Commission announced last night that officials of the board would proceed at once to investigate the operation of the trains, the orders given the crews and any other details that must be placed at the disposal of the commission.

The engineers of the two trains escaped death and while Paul Gauvreau of the Toronto-bound train, suffered fractures of his legs and had body bruises, E. A. Alexander, the engineer of No. 3, Westbound, who jumped when he saw a disaster could

STRONG WINDS DELAY IROQUOIS

Bound for Seattle and Sound ports, the Puget Sound Navigation Company's steamer Iroquois was forty-five minutes late in leaving the harbor here this morning due to the heavy wind which was sweeping in from the Strait. On schedule time at 10:15 o'clock, the Iroquois backed out of her berth but when she got out into the harbor the strong wind prohibited her turning around. She returned to the shelter of the water opposite the pier and there slowly and cautiously succeeded in turning round and then steamed out bow first. It was 11 o'clock before she finally cleared the harbor.

A FORMIDABLE SALVAGE JOB

Above are shown views of the United States freighter A. L. Kent as she lies stranded on a small island of the Johnstone Strait, 235 miles north of Victoria. She grounded in dense fog last Saturday morning, and it will probably be several days before she is refloated. Meanwhile the Pacific Salvage Company's steamers Salvage Queen and Skookum from Vancouver are standing alongside, while the lumber cargo aboard the Kent is being lightered by barges sent from Vancouver. The Kent has a twenty-six degree list and her stern is in six feet of water.

WILL DOCK C.N. VESSEL MONDAY; ENA ON RAILWAY

For cleaning and painting and general overhaul the Canadian National freighter Canadian Seignior will enter the Government Drydock at Esquimalt on Monday. Yarrow's Limited will do the work on the ship, and she will be released within about three days. The Seignior arrived here Monday with a heavy general cargo from the Atlantic Coast.

Preparatory to resuming her schedule for the Spring and Summer months, the C.N.R. coastal freighter Princess Ena was put on the marine railway at Yarrow's Limited this afternoon for cleaning and painting. She will sail Saturday for Skagway and other Alaska ports with a heavy cargo.

Griffco to Be Docked

Not Badly Damaged and Is Able to Proceed on Trip Although Docking Necessary

Damage suffered by the impact with a rock near Ladysmith Tuesday night by the freighter Griffco was not extensive, and the ship was able to proceed on her regular schedule, although it will be necessary to dock her shortly. It was learned here this morning upon the return to Victoria of H. A. Barnett, marine surveyor for the San Francisco Board of Marine Underwriters. Mr. Barnett gave the master of the damaged ship a license to proceed on her schedule after a diver from Yarrow's Limited after a search of the ship was not seriously damaged. She was sinking no water, although three or four plates underneath the engine room are badly bent.

The Griffco, owned by the Coastwise

Steamship and Barge Company of Seattle, was proceeding to Bubber Bay when the accident happened. She was only on the rock about an hour, and was then able to free herself. She left Ladysmith yesterday for Bubber Bay, Stewart and Anxoy and on her next trip southbound will go to Esquimalt to enter the Government drydock there, to be repaired by Yarrow's Limited. It will be about ten days before the ship reaches Esquimalt.
